

This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

PREFACE

THIS gathering of Family Genealogical Records, and bits of personal history of my Ancestors, was commenced many years since, with frequent searches in old Burial Grounds and old Town Records. In the year 1907 my friend Mr. Felix A. Gendrot became interested to aid me in my research — bringing great enthusiasm, trained knowledge and untiring patience in following obscure clews; delving in Libraries and Vital Statistics, thereby obtaining exact facts from the local records in many Towns and States — to him I give sincere thanks. May other families be inspired to pay a like tribute, thereby showing our gratitude for Noble Ancestors.

"And after all to go back to the study of ancestry, what is there petty or ill advised, in the study of one's family line? It is natural to desire to learn who and what the men and women were whose blood flows through our veins, many of whose traits we more or less consciously illustrate, and to whom we owe what we have and are, in a far higher degree than we often appreciate.

There is inspiration in discovering that one is descended from this man or that woman, once loved and honored among the sturdy pioneers, who settled our country, perhaps even famous in church or state here, or on the other side of the Atlantic. It is helpful to manhood, to culture, to piety to know one's self akin to those who suffered oppression and made noble sacrifices for the sake of conscience; helped to found our great Western civilization, or rallied to the defense of the infant nation when its life hung in the balance."

The Congregationalist, August 4, 1898.

BLAKE COAT-OF-ARMS

BLAKE-TORREY GENEALOGY

BLAKES IN ENGLAND.

1. de BLAKELAND Robert, who was assessed in the Wiltshire Roll of Subsidies granted in 1286 to Edward I. His son who dropped the particle "de" from his name and the terminal "land" was:

2. BLAKE Robert, who had his residence in Calne, County of Wiltshire, England. By his wife Anne, daughter of William Cole, he had:

3. BLAKE Henry, who married a daughter of Edward Durant and had a son:

4. BLAKE William, who married Elizabeth, daughter of Thomas Power. Their son:

5. BLAKE Henry, of Calne, married Margaret, daughter of Mr. Billett, and had:

6. BLAKE Robert, of Calne and Quemberford. He married Alice, daughter of John Wallop, Esq. They were buried under, and have a memorial window in Calne church. Their son:

7. BLAKE William resided in White Parish, Wiltshire, and died in 1471, and had:

8. BLAKE William, who resided at Old Hall in the parish of Andover. He married Mary, daughter of Humphrey Coles. He made his will in 1547, which was proved on the 20th of June 1547. His son:

9. BLAKE Humphrey, removed in the early part of the 16th century into Somersetshire, seated himself in Over Stowey, and became Lord of the Manor of Plainfield. The manor house is still standing; a portion of it evidently as originally built, pleasantly situated on the eastern side of the Quantock Hills. In the great hall of the Manor house in Plainfield are the sculptured arms of this Blake family as borne by its ancestors — a shield bearing three sheaves, two above and one below a chevron. He died in 1558. By his wife Agnes, he had seven children.

(The second son Robert was grandfather of the renowned Admiral Robert Blake.) His eldest son:

10. BLAKE John, born in 1521, succeeded to the Manor of Plainfield. His wife was Jane and they had seven children. He was buried at Over Stowey church 10 Dec. 1576.

11. BLAKE William, the eldest son of John, by the will of his father was bequeathed lands in Over Stowey, Bishops Lydiard and elsewhere. No subsequent trace of him is found upon the parish registers and he is the man who is supposed to have settled in Pitminster. — The Manor Rolls of Taunton, Somersetshire, show that a William Blake in 1586 bought lands in Pitminster. Of his birthplace and parentage nothing is known, but it is a natural inference that he is the William whose name appears on the register of that parish in 1588 and in subsequent years. He may, too, be the one who was buried in the same parish June 13, 1642. There is no record of his wife's name, but there was a widow Anne Blake buried there 14 Aug. 1644. The parish register of Pitminster which begin in the year 1544 is in a good state of preservation and, from it the following items are obtained:

"Anno Domino, 1588. Grace Blake, daughter of William Blake, was baptized the 9th day of February.

1592. Anne Blake, daughter of William Blake was baptized the third day of December.

1594. William Black¹² son of William Blake was baptized the Xth day of July.

1597. John Black son of William Blacke was baptized the XIXth day of June.

1600. Ane Blaak daughter of William Blaak was baptized the sixteen day of October.

1603. Richard Blaak son of William Blaak was baptized the seventeenth day of Aprill."

Later on appear the following entries which must prove interesting to all descendants in America.

"1617. William Blake ((12) in England and (1) in America) was married to Agnes Band widow the XXIIIth day of September.

1618. John Blake,³ sonne of William Blake, and Ane Blake, daughter of William Blake was baptized the XXXth of August.

1620. William Blake sonne of William Blake was bapt. 6th of September.

1624. James Blake sonne of William Blake was baptized 27th April."

With this record from Pitminster before us there cannot be a shadow of doubt that we have here the family of William of Dorchester. We know that he had a wife Agnes and children John, Anne, William and James, and to make the case still stronger, the age of the father at death, and also of three of the children, Anne, William and James, corresponds with the date of the baptism at Pitminster. No record has been found of the baptism of Edward, another son of William and Agnes.

BLAKES IN AMERICA

FIRST GENERATION.

WILLIAM BLAKE AND AGNES BAND.

BLAKE William ((1) in America and (12) in England), son of William, was baptized in Pitminster, England, 10 July 1594. He married 23 Sept. 1617, widow Agnes Band, whose maiden name has not been ascertained. In the same parish are to be found recorded the baptism of four of their children, John, Anne, William and James. Of the baptism of their son Edward there is no record there, nor has any evidence been found of the place of the father's residence between the year 1624 (when his son James was baptized) and 1636 when he was found in America. On the 14 and 16th of May 1636, he was with Mr. Pynchon and at which time they with their associates drew up and signed the articles of Association at Agawan (now Springfield), but his name is not found upon the records subsequent to the first business transacted there. There are good reasons for concluding that he was in Dorchester earlier than indicated by the records there, but the first mention of his name is under date of 2 Jan. 1637/8 when it is ordered that certain persons, including Mr. Blake, should have "confirmed to them the ground joyneing to their hoame lotts to the other pale allowing 3 goad for a highway," which certainly is evidence that he was already in possession of land for a dwelling, but unfortunately the date of his first grant of a house lot does not appear. He was made freeman in 1638, and in 1645 we find him one of the Selectmen. His great-grandson records in his "Annals of Dorchester," under date 1663, "This year Died Mr William Blake who had been Clerk of ye Writs for ye County of Suffolk and Recorder for ye Town near 8 years. He was also Clerk of ye Training band. He died ye 25 of ye 8th mo. 1663 in ye 69th year of his age." In his will dated 3rd of September 1661, he mentions wife and "five children " without naming them, and the inventory taken 6 Nov.

1663, amounted £224. 12. 00. His wife Agnes removed to Boston, probably to live with her son John or her only daughter Anne Leager, and joined the church there 6.(1) 1669/70. She died in Dorchester 22 July 1678. From researches made by me I locate his home lot on Stoughton St. on " Jones Hill " opposite the burying ground, which was such an eyesore to him, that he left 20 shillings to the town " to be bestowed for the repairing of the burying place soe ye swine and other vermine may not anoy the graves of the saints." The present Everett Ave. dividing the lower part, the lot running to the top of the hill, in all containing about 9 acres. (See illustration.)

SECOND GENERATION.

JOHN BLAKE AND BRECK FAMILY.

BRECK FAMILY.

BRECK Edward,¹ who came to Dorchester with the company of the Rev. Richard Mather in 1635, is usually called yeoman, though of ancient lineage and possessing kinsmen mentioned in the heralds visitation (e.g., Chester), as "gentleman." He was the son of Robert and the grandson of Hugh or Thomas; probably the former, who died at Rainforth (now Rainford) part of the parish of Prescott, Lancashire in 1591. Edward who was born in or near the year 1600 was probably left by his father in good circumstances for he was a land holder and "man of distinction" before he left Rainforth for New England. He began at once to take an important part in public life of the Dorchester settlement and served the town in various capacities including repeated terms as selectman. The loss of his first wife, as well as of a son and a daughter is referred to in a letter written to him about the year 1646. He married for his second wife, Isabell, who was the widow of John Rigby. (She married for her third husband Anthony Fisher of Dorchester on the 14th of Nov. 1663.) He lived on what is now called Adams Street very near where the Hon. John Howe since lived and built the mill on Smelt Brook Creek now known as the "tidemill or Tilestons Mill." He died Nov. 2, 1662, leaving an estate the value of which ran into hundreds of pounds sterling. In his will of 30 Oct. 1662, he mentions wife Isabell and all his living children and the deceased daughter referred to. "My will is, that all my dau. Blak's Children shall have each 40 s. out of my Estate."

BLAKE JOHN² (of Boston), (*William*¹), son of William and Agnes (Band) Blake, baptized at Pitminster, England, 30 Aug. 1618. We think he married the daughter of Edward Breck of Dorchester about 1640, for his first wife; she died about 1645, leaving children. He married at the age of 36 in Boston, 16 Aug. 1654, Widow Mary Shaw, daughter of Nathaniel and Alice Souther and widow of Joseph Shaw of Weymouth. He is recorded a new member recruited of the Honorable Artillery Company in the year 1642-3 and was made freeman in 1644. On the 27th 2nd Mo. 1657, he went bonds in Boston for his brother Edward, and the same year was appointed Constable. In Feb. 1662/3 he purchased a portion of his sister Anna Leager's estate on what is now Washington Street, and on the site of the present Adams House, to which he subsequently added another lot (what is now Keith's Theater) and without doubt resided there. (See illustration, page 13.) (Shown by the dotted lines.) His nephew John Blake of Dorchester who inherited the property sold it in 1694 to Edward Durant, who a few years afterwards conveyed it to James Blinn, at which time there was a tavern there known as the "Sign of the Lamb." He was "clerke of ye Market" at Boston 1669/70. On the 18: 12: 1671, he was dismissed from the church in Dorchester "to Joyne to ye 3rd Church in Boston."

He was appointed Surveyor for Boston in 1671-2. A merchant of Boston, evidently a man of considerable influence and of high social standing in the town. Was one of the executors of the will of Governor John Winthrop in 1676. He died in Boston 25 Jan. 1688/9, leaving a will, but no inventory of his estate has been found. He gave his wife £200 and the use and improvements of all his estate "if she continued a widow," and made generous bequests to his brothers William, James and Edward and their children, his "Cosin" Bethia Shaw and her children, Hannah Walker, Kinswoman Hannah Wiswell and "Cosin" John (son of his brother James) to whom he gave all his houses and lands in Boston. A bequest was also made to John Winthrop, son of Waite Winthrop, Esq., the latter being named as one of the overseers of the will. The widow died in Boston 7 Jan. 1693/4.

Presumable children of the daughter of Edward Breck:

John (?), b. abt. 1640, m. Bridget ———, ? abt. 1660, lived in Sandwich, d. at Wrentham 25 May 1700.

CALEB (?), b. abt. 1642. He is recorded as having been killed in the "King Phillips War," 1676. Home town given as Sandwich.

A CHILD (?), b. abt. 1644.

By second wife:

HANNAH, b. 16 Jan. 1657 at Boston, d. at Boston 30 Aug. 1659.

THIRD GENERATION.

BLAKE John^{*} (of Wrentham), (John,² *William*¹), was the son, we think, of John Blake of Boston and the daughter of Edward Breck of Dorchester, and was born in Dorchester about 1640. He married Bridget, her maiden name and place of marriage not known. The first positive record we have of him is in the will of John Wampus, an Indian, and made in England and dated 5 Sept. 1679, in which John Blake and Edward Pratt are bequeathed land in Assanamascoc of the Nipmug country in New England. They both are named as executors of his will. John Blake is called of "Plymouth in New England, husbandman." (See "Genealogical Gleanings in England," by Henry F. Waters.) He is next recorded in the deed of transfer of this land dated 25 Aug. 1686 and he is then called "late of Sandwich; and now of Wrentham." (See Suffolk deeds, liber 16, Folio 89.) In the town records of Wrentham we find that he was chosen on the first list of selectmen 1686, and in 1688 found amongst 36 taxpayers is Ensign Blake, who was the wealthiest, which leads us to believe that he was a military man. In 1689 the records refer to a Mr. Blake, and in the tax list of the year 1691, he having the sum of £ 9. 11 s. against his name. John Blake died in Wrentham 25 May 1700 and he is buried in the Wrentham Center Cemetery (see illustration) "Brigit Blake Wid. of Jo— died 30 May 170—" (Wrentham Vital Records). This is no doubt John Blake's widow. (Perley Derby of Salem, gives Bridget Blake's death as 30 May 1706.)

CHILDREN:

ARGUMENTS.

In the genealogy of the Blake family in New England we have been successful in finding positive records, connecting the various Blakes of our line up to Robert of Wrentham and the priority of John Blake in Wrentham is found, but no positive connection by record can be made between them. To connect John Blake of Wrentham with some of the Blakes of New England has been my natural desire, and after much research it seems to me that a connection with the Dorchester Blakes might be made, as I have found records that would give supposition to that effect, but positive connection is again lacking. It is my theory that the eldest son John of William Blake Sr. of Dorchester, was previously married before he married Mary Shaw and had a son John, who may have been John Blake of Wrentham and that John of Wrentham was the father of Robert of Wrentham.

This is considerable to assume in view of the fact that William Blake Sr. in his will stated therein that his son John, "had no charge," while a greater argument against such a theory is found in the will of said John Blake of Boston, in which he gives his wife considerable money and all of his house and land to a nephew John, son to his brother James, but mentions no children. For all that I feel arguments can be made otherwise. In considering the subject there are three points to determine. First, was John Blake, son of William and Agnes, married previous to his marriage with Mary (Souther) Shaw? Second, was the above John Blake of Dorchester and Boston, father to John Blake of Plymouth, Sandwich and Wrentham? Third, was the above John Blake of Wrentham father to Robert Blake of that town, and was Robert any relation to John (of a younger generation than the one above), Andrew and Isaac, all found in Wrentham at his period? In considering the first point, my belief that John Blake, son of William Sr. of Dorchester, was previously married is founded on the facts that his marrying for the first time at the age of 36 years seems rather late in life for those days. Furthermore, in the will of Edward Breck of Dorchester made in the year 1662, in which he says: "My will is that all my dau. Blak's children shall have each 40 s. out of my estate." This would lead one to believe that it could only be one of William Blake's sons, they being the only Blakes in Dorchester at that time; that argument is strengthened when we know that William Blake Sr. and Edward Breck were passengers on the same ship, for Ebenezer Clap Jr., in his History of Dorchester, says "that they came to America in the same ship with Rev. Richard Mather in 1635." Now John the son of William Blake Sr. was born in 1618, while the birth of Edward Breck's daughter is placed at 1622, so John Blake in 1635 would have been 17 years of age, while the Breck girl would be about 13 or 14 years old. It does not seem fanciful to assume that during the long voyage across that a young man of the susceptible age of 17 would strike up a friendship that would ripen into marriage a few years later. In the Breck Genealogy they place the birth of this daughter at about 1622 and her marriage to Blake at about the year 1640 and her death in 1645, so she must have had from two to four children. In an old letter found and written to Edward Breck from his old pastor in England, Rev. James Wood, and the date of the writing is placed in the year 1646, that is to say, after the death of Edward Breck's first wife, as well as a son in England and the death of this daughter "Blak," and which I now quote "but me thinks my thoughts return this Apollogie for my old frend, he is in sorrowe for his dear wife, for his sweet daughter, both were I here, God, hath of late taken unto himselfe. So Hopefull a sonne here, so gracious & sweet a wife & daughter there, cannot but lye close to a tender father & loveing husbands hart" — A reason that might be advanced to account for no records being found of her marriage and death, as well as the birth of her children, is, that a fire occurred in Dorchester in 1649, destroying many old records. These facts combine to confirm my conclusions. Second, was John Blake of Dorchester and Boston, father to John Blake of Plymouth, Sandwich and Wrentham? We find in the Plymouth Colony Records under date of 7 March 1659-60 the following. "In answare to the request of Mr. John Blake of Boston: in the behalfe of himselfe & sister Mistris Hannah Johnson, that according to a former grant of the Court unto Mr. Nathaneal Souther, their father, deceased that hee the said Blake might have libertie to looke out a pacell of land to accomodate them according to aforesaid grant, the Court gave him libertie to seeke out and in case hee can find any land yett undesposed of within our jurisdiction that may bee suitable unto him and answerable to his expectation hee is to signify it to the

Court and shall have a competency thereof confirmed unto them."* Again in an invoice of the estate of Richard Taylor of Yarmouth taken the 13th of the 10th month in the year 1673, we find the following item: "due from Mr. John Blake of Boston 16 s." From these records it will be seen that John Blake of Boston had business negotiations in Plymouth Colony. Now John Blake of Wrentham was also of Plymouth and Sandwich, for in a will (made in England and dated 5 Sept. 1679) of John White alias Wampus, an Indian, and in which John Blake and Edward Pratt are bequeathed land in Assanamascoc of the Nipmug country in New England. They both are named as executors of the will. John Blake is called of Plymouth in New England. (See Genealogical Gleanings in England by Henry F. Waters.) While in a deed dated Boston, 25 Aug. 1686, as an executor to the estate of said John Wampus, John Blake is called now of Wrentham formerly of Sandwich. (See Suffolk deeds, lib. 16, Folio 89.) These facts it would seem to me, would tie in a way, these two men together. That there was a Blake family in Sandwich, there is no doubt for we find in the records of soldiers of King Phillips War that a Caleb Blake was slain and home town given as Sandwich. Now another strange coincidence is the fact that in the year 1666 "Robert Wayard of Hartford, Conn., conveyed by deed a tract of land situated in Boston to John Wampus, an Indian of Boston, bounded on the common etc. with a dwelling house thereon." This tract is now partly covered by St. Paul's Church. My theory is that John Blake of Boston living in 1666 on what is now the Adams House, and John Wampus living at what is now St. Paul's Church were practically neighbors (see illustration), and that a son of John Blake could have become friendly to this John Wampus, thus easily explaining this mark of confidence in making him one of the executors of his will in 1679. Studying carefully these several interlacing bits of history, we can surely find corroborative evidence to assume that John Blake of Boston is father to John Blake of Sandwich in Plymouth Colony and who died in Wrentham in 1700.

Third: Was John Blake of Sandwich and Wrentham father to Robert Blake of Wrentham, and was Robert any relation to the other Blakes found in Wrentham in his time? John Blake of Sandwich and Wrentham died in the latter place in 1700 and his wife Bridget died there in 1706. We find in the Wrentham Town Records of the year 1688 that among thirty-six tax payers, that Ensign Blake was the wealthiest. Now Robert Blake married in 1703 and soon after we find him located on a large farm in Wrentham, which fact would denote wealth; furthermore, he too in 1709 was called Ensign in the Queen's service, and at his death was known as Captain, as will be seen by the inscription on his gravestone. I point out these facts as showing a similar position in the community, that might be handed down from father to son. Another substantial evidence of relationship is the fact that their gravestones are found very near together in the Wrentham Cemetery. As to the relationship between the other Blakes of Wrentham of that period to either older John or Robert, we find in the births of the children of the younger John Blake (who married Joanna Whiting in 1689) that he had a daughter named Bridget, thereby plainly indicating by his own name and that of his daughter's a relationship with John and Bridget Blake; again we find that the oldest son of John and Joanna Blake whose name was James, was a witness to the will of Robert Blake in 1735, while Andrew Blake who married Sarah Stephens in 1696 named his oldest son Isaac, in that way connecting him with John and Bridget Blake who had a son Isaac, we think, and who died in Wrentham in 1689. It is my opinion that John Blake Sr. had extensive land holdings and that he divided it between his three sons. John and Andrew having their land on Stop River in that part of Wrentham now called Norfolk, as shown by deeds, and no doubt lived in that vicinity. Andrew certainly did for he is buried in the Norfolk cemetery. While Robert being the youngest remained on the home farm with his father and mother and at their death inherited it.

This chain of separate records seemingly links itself together in corroborative support of my theory, that we have here the true line of descent: this is my belief from all data given and I trust that future research will confirm my contentions.

FOURTH GENERATION.

ROBERT BLAKE AND SARAH GUILD.

GUILD FAMILY.

GUILD John,¹ weaver, supposed to have been born in England about 1616, came to America in the year 1636 with his brother Samuel and sister Ann. He married 24 June 1645, Elizabeth Crooke of Roxbury who transferred her relation from the church of that place to the church in Dedham 4 July 1649. She died 31 Aug. 1669. He was admitted to the church at Dedham, Mass., 17 July 1640 and bought in this year twelve acres of upland on which he built a house which was occupied by himself and descendants for more than two hundred years. He was made a freeman 10 May 1643 and as one of the original grantees had assigned to him and his heirs forever, three roods and twelve rods more or less to which he added by grants and purchase considerable other real estate in Dedham, Wrentham, Medfield and Natick. He was thoroughly honest in all his dealings and in his habits. He never held any office, and the town records show his attendance at meeting but once in several years, that on an occasion of considerable excitement in relation to making alterations and additions to the meeting house. He died 4 Oct. 1682, leaving a will dated 3 Oct. 1682 and proved 3 Nov. 1682, in which he names children Samuel, John, Elizabeth. "I give and bequeath unto my son John Guild all my land lying in Wrentham as well upland as midow as also my lott near Meadfield in the dividend called 'Meadfield Dividend,' to him and his heirs forever; also I give unto my son John my looms and four sleays, which are suitable for present use as also one wheel w'th ye blades, and a book called 'Sound Believer.'" It was certified in court 3 Nov. 1682, "that he was to the understanding of the witness of disposing mind." The following inventory of his estate was made 4 Nov. 1682 and amounted to £153. 11 s.

FISHER FAMILY.

FISHER Anthony, lived in the latter part of Queen Elizabeth's reign in the parish of Syleham, County Suffolk, England, on the south bank of the Waveney River which separates Suffolk from Norfolk on a freehold estate called "Wignotte." His wife was Mary, daughter of William and Anne Fiske of St. James, South Elmsham, County Suffolk, an old Puritan family of that country which had suffered during the religious persecution of Queen Mary's reign. The Parish Records of Syleham contain several references to Anthony Fisher and his descendants, which are annexed in the language of the Records, namely:

Anno Domini 1585, Joshua Fysher, et Maria Fysher, Gemini, baptisadi fuer 24th die Februarii ano superdicto.

Anno Domini 1591 Antonius Fysher, bapt. erat 23 Aprilis anno sup. dicto.

Anno Domini 1599 Cornelius Fysher, the sonne of Anthonye Fisher was bap. the six day of Augusti.

Anno Domini 1621 Joshua Fysher, the sonne of Joshua Fysher was baptized on the II days of Aprille.

Anno Dom. 1633 Amos Fysher and Ann Lord were married September 24.

Joshua Fysher and Ann Luson were married 7 February, Anno Dom 1638.

Anthony Fysher was buried the eleventh day of April 1640. This last entry evidently is Anthony Fisher Senior.

FISHER Anthony,¹ son of Anthony of Syleham, County Suffolk, England, was baptized 23 April 1591, came to New England with his first wife Mary and children probably from Yarmouth in the ship "Rose," arriving in Boston 26 June 1637 and settled in Dedham. He subscribed to the Dedham Covenant, 18 July 1637. On the 1 January 1638 he was one of the committee "Chosen to Contrive the Fabricke of a Meeting-house." On 28 July 1638 he was assigned his house lot of twelve acres, more or less. His wife Mary joined the Dedham church 27 March 1642, "but he was not comfortably received into ye church on account of his proud and haught sprit untill 14 March 1645." He was made freeman May 1645, was chosen Selectman of Dedham ("to act in town affairs") in 1646 and 1647. County Commissioner, 3 Sept. 1660 and a Deputy to the General Court 2 May 1649, was Wood-reeve in 1653-54-55-57-58-61 and 62. From a Minute in the handwriting of Eleazer Lusher bearing date 9 March 1652, we would infer that he, Anthony, gave the bulk of his property to his sons and they bound themselves to support their mother if she were left dependent. We find in the Dedham Records that his property was assessed on 2 Feb. 1656/7 at £117. 3 s. We have been unable to learn the date of the death of his wife Mary, but he married again the 14th of Nov. 1663, Isabell, widow of Edward Breck of Dorchester, being at the time of this marriage about 72. He was chosen commissioner 8 March 1666 and selectman of Dorchester Dec. 1664-65-66. "He died at Dorchester in the 80th year of his age 18 April 1671." "His widow Died the 22 June 1673." The inventory of his estate showing only personal property in Dedham and Dorchester was presented by Ensign Daniel Fisher 20 July 1671, and an agreement for the distribution was made as follows, and dated 26 July 1672: "We whose names are hereto written being ye sons and ye daughter of our late deceased father Anthony Fisher, sometimes called of Dorchester decease," etc. and signed by Daniel, Nathaniel and Cornelius Fisher, Daniel Morse and Joanna Fisher.

FAXON FAMILY.

FAXON Thomas,¹ was born in England about 1601, came to America before 1647 with his wife Joane and three children. The earliest record of him is found at Dedham, Mass., in the marriage of his daughter Joanna to Anthony Fisher Jr., 7 Sept. 1647. His wife Joane appears upon the records in a single instance, in giving her assent to a deed of an eighth part of Block Island conveyed by Thomas Faxon to John Williams, etc.; the date of her acknowledgment of the deed is 4 June, 1663. Her name seems to account for that of her daughter Joanna. The record of her death is not found, but is between 1663 and 1670 for Thomas Faxon was married 5 Sept. 1670 to Mrs. Sarah Savil, widow. He was generally termed Mr. Thomas Faxon. He was a freeman 1656 and a representative or deputy from Braintree in 1669 and one of the selectmen there in 1670-72. In his will he mentions his wife Sarah and widow Mrs. Fisher (his daughter). He died 23 Nov. 1680 at Braintree.

FISHER Anthony² (*Anthony*¹) was the eldest son of Anthony and Mary Fisher of Dorchester. Married in Dedham 7 Sept. 1647 Joanna only daughter of Thomas and Joane Faxon of Braintree. He came with his parents to New England and settled in Dedham 1637, was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery Company in 1644; made a freeman 6 May 1646. Joined the Dedham church 20 July 1645. He was chosen surveyor at Dedham 1654-1664. In 1652 he settled the estate of Henry Brookes. Anthony Fisher Jr. was among the first to go to Wollomonopoag (Wrentham) in 1661 and to claim part of the 600 acres for the encouragement of that plantation. In March 1663 "in behalf of them that have improvements there (Wrentham) that they might take their lots with the rest of the proprietors." . . . These persons were the first persons to break up and improve lands at Wollomonopoag. Anthony located his "improvements" (so called) upon the easterly and south easterly side of Whittings Pond or Great Pond (previously known as Mill Pond), but their houses were some distance from the Pond, probably on what is now Franklin Street and South Street. (See illustration.) On 8 Nov. 1669 he was one of those who went and treated with Philip Sagamore and bought the land at Wrentham. Anthony's name is in the records as paying the town and county rate in 1648, in which year his house was valued at £10. 8 s. Soon thereafter he rented land of Gov. Stoughton and on 6 Jan. 1652 he paid his annual rent in 5 bushels of Indian corn 0-15-0. He was assessed for £95. 10 s., 20 Feb. 1656-57. The following does not tell exactly where he lived in Dorchester but gives much information. "To the much Honord Gouvenor, the Deputie Gouvenor and the Assitants and Deputies assembled in General Court at Boston 7 of 3 mo 1662. — The petition of Anthony Fisher and Nathaniell Stearnes Humbly sheweth: That wheras we your petitioners being inhabitants in Mr. Stoughton's Farme within the Bounds of Dorchester but yet distant about Seaven or eight miles or more from Dorchester meeting house and being neere ajacent to the Towne of Dedham by reason of which our scituation we are uncapeable to attend publike ordenances at Dorchester ordinarily: and we for our owne and our Familyes conveniencie doe constantly attend at Dedham, where each of our selves and our wives are enjoyed in Church Fellowship in that church." He probably lived on the land bought of Mr. Stoughton situated near the Neponset River, but within the bounds of Dorchester. He died 13 Feb. 1670, his widow Joanna died 16 Oct. 1694. The inventory of his estate made 7 April 1670 includes: "House and land thereof belonging in Dedham £40. Land purchased of Mr. Stoughton £50 etc etc."

She was born 29 Oct. 1658. He moved from Dedham to Wrentham, Mass., in 1681 and is in the first list of selectmen chosen in 1686, united with the church there 13 April 1692 and was elected a deacon 7 Dec. 1707. "As the Puritan standard of fitness for church membership and especially for the office of deacon was very rigid; there can be no hesitation in ascribing to him all those qualities of mind and heart which constitute a trustworthy citizen and exemplary Christian." He was a witness to the purchase of land from the Indians at Lancaster in 1701 and died at Wrentham 24 January 1722/3 in his 72 year, and is buried in the Wrentham Center Cemetery.

BLAKE Robert⁴ (John,³ John,³ William¹), was born about 1675 and was undoubtedly the son of John and Bridget Blake.

CAPT. ROBERT BLAKE HOUSE
Wrentham, Mass.

He married 7 Jan. 1703 at Wrentham, Mass., Sarah, daughter of John and Sarah (Fisher) Guild. She was born at Wrentham 3 June 1683. His farm (doubtless inherited from his father) was situated on the side of Blake's Pond (now Archers) in Wrentham and he built his home on the crown of the hill, parts of which are incorporated into the house now occupying the site. (See illustration.) No other place can be as fitting as this to tell of the very desirable location and beautiful outlook over the pretty sheet of water which was the home of several of the Blake family. The remaining trunk of an old oak which was left in clearing the forest and stood for generations as a landmark by the roadside is still carefully supported and guarded as a precious heritage from an earlier settler. The grandson Phillip in his memoirs tells that when he was a boy the old people called it "The Old Oak." Robert Blake was owner of much property in Wrentham, an active and useful citizen; an officer and Captain of the Troops. A family of ten children was born to him, and as is often the case we learn much of the real character of a person by their last will; this not only reveals the fine nature of the man but gives interesting sidelights and clews to colonial customs. He died at Wrentham and we read on the brown slate headstone (in the old part of the cemetery at Wrentham Center). (See illustration, page 24.) This headstone stands close by a new roadway, recently projected. The mound or grave has surely vanished, and as I stood by the spot I invoked Shakespeare's Malediction upon the vandalism of modern improvements. Just to one side and in what was doubtless the same lot, stands a headstone to his wife, who remarried after his death, which reads "Sarah Perry, formerly wife of Captain Robert Blake, died July 30, 1757 in her 75th year."

Extracts of the Will of Robert Blake. "In the Name of God Amen. The first Day of Oct in the 9th year of Reign of Souereign Lord George the Second, etc. King. To Daughter Sarah Fisher £5 having given her considerable upon her marriage. To Daughter Hipzabath £32. 10 shillings. To Daughter Ester £32. 10 shillings. — etc etc." Probated at Boston 28 Oct. 1735. In the inventory of his estate, his home lot by estimation comprised 100 acres, with very near 100 acres more in different places. The total amount of the estate was £1269. 5. 6.

FIFTH GENERATION.

NATHAN BLAKE AND ELIZABETH GRAVES.

GRAVES FAMILY.

GRAVES Thomas,¹ was born in England before 1585 and came to New England with his wife Sarah and five children before 1645. His children were all born in England and were all of mature age when they came to this country; the youngest of his sons being about 16 years old. The first official record of him in this country is found at Hartford, Conn., 1645. He was not an original proprietor there; "an old man and was excused from military training." He is put down as having three pieces of real estate; one described as being the one "where on his house standeth." The sons took up homes nearby, the family remained together as far as it is known until the removal to Hatfield, Mass. I know nothing of the daughter Elizabeth; the son Samuel never married and probably did not live to accompany the rest. While Nathaniel for the sake of remaining near his wife's relations did not remove with the rest of the family to Hatfield, which removal was in Sept. 1661, reaching there in Oct. 1661.

Thomas Graves was now an aged but honored member of the community, past his 76th birthday and was not given a separate assignment or grant of land, but was counted in with his eldest son Isaac, while the lands of his son John were contiguous. He and his wife were inmates of the family of Isaac during the remainder of their lives, his death occurring Nov. 1662, one year after removal to Hatfield, his son Isaac being administrator upon his estate in Massachusetts; while his son Nathaniel performed the same service on his estate in Connecticut. His wife Sarah survived him four years and died on 17 Dec. 1666. Isaac administered upon her estate.

ISAAC, b. in England, m. Mary Church, killed by the Indians, 19 Sept. 1677.

John, b. in England, m. (1) Mary Smith, d. 16 Dec. 1668; m. (2) 20 July 1671, Wid. Mary Wyatt; killed by the Indians, 19 Sept. 1677.

SAMUEL, b. in England. Did not marry. Died prob. before removal of family to Hatfield.

ELIZABETH, b. in England, m. ———, d. ———.

NATHANIEL, b. in England abt. 1629, m. Martha Betts, 16 Jan. 1655, d. at Wethersfield, Conn., 28 Sept. 1682, age about 53 yrs.

SMITH FAMILY.

SMITH Lieut. Samuel,¹ came from England in the ship "Elizabeth," from Ipswich in 1634 and by the custom-house records his age is given as 32 with wife Elizabeth 32, and children, Samuel 9, Elizabeth 7, Mary 4, and Philip 1. He was admitted freeman 3 Sept. 1634. Was first perhaps at Watertown where most of the passengers of that ship planted, but in a few years went to Wethersfield, Conn. He was representative there from 1641-53, and in 1659 removed to Hadley, Mass., where he was in very high repute holding important office in both church and state. Was representative often from there from 1661 to 1673. Lieutenant in command of the military from 1663 to 1678. Was made a magistrate for the town. He died Dec. 1680 age about 78 years. Of the four children he brought, three were named in his will, though he gave the eldest son only 5 s., no doubt for sufficient reason, yet not expressed. Chileal and John his sons are mentioned. The inventory of his estate was taken 17 Jan. 1681. His widow died 16 March 1686 age 84 years.

SAMUEL, b. in England abt. 1625, m. Elizabeth Smith, d.———, removed to Virginia.

Elizabeth, b. in England abt. 1627, m. (1) 1646, Nathaniel Foot, d. abt. 1654; m. (2) William Gull, d. 1701; d. after 1701.

And on 7 April 1676 he was a Sergeant under Capt. Turner and stationed with 44 men under him at Hatfield, and he held the same office in the "Falls fight" 19 May 1676. After the war he settled at Hatfield and set up a hatters shop. He is found among others taking the oath of allegiance at Hatfield on 8 Feb. 1678. One of his descendants, Elijah Bardwell, to whom we are indebted for many items, says he lived at "North Farms." He died 9 Jan. 1726 and his widow died 12 Nov. 1726.

He married Thankful, daughter of Robert and Mary (Gull) Bardwell of Hatfield, 23 May 1717. He settled in Deerfield and removed to Swanzey, N. H., where his name is found on a list of early settlers there 6 Dec. 1739, probably returned to Deerfield during the period of Indian raids from Canada. We find on a plan of house lots dated 1747 that his was number 49 and located to the east of the meeting house. His name and that of his son-in-law Nathan Blake are found among others to subscribe to the church covenant 21 Aug. 1753. The churches of Swanzey and Keene met at the school house in Swanzey and mutually and unanimously agreed to be one religious society. His name is found again in Swanzey Factory Village in 1759, where he was chosen on a committee to lay out the land extending from Keene line southwesterly so as to include the entire privilege. He died 28 Oct. 1777, and his wife Thankful died 12 March 1775.

BLAKE Nathan⁵ (Robert,⁴ John,³ John,² *William*¹), fifth child of Robert and Sarah (Guild) Blake was born in Wrentham, 13 March 1711/2. He married Elizabeth, daughter of Abraham and Thankfull (Bardwell) Graves in 1741. She was born 19 July 1721. Records show, that he was a husbandman, inheriting much land and also a goodly sum of money from his father. To give a clear idea of the movements of this period in the colonies we will state that the government had initiated Colonial Grants in New Hampshire, which proved an attractive magnet to those with money and a greater one to the brave spirits who thirsted for adventure. Thus we find that Nathan Blake at the age of 24 possessed of much land and property in Wrentham, surrounded by a good degree of civilization, good homes, and established colonial government, upon the death of his father, abandoned all these comforts and with his brother Obidiah and others took up grants in Upper Asheulot, now Keene, N. H., where he built the first house ever built in Keene in the year 1736 (see illustration) braving the terrors of frontier life, knowing full well the fierce Indian raids of a previous decade in the neighboring valley of the Connecticut. The annals of Keene give graphic account of this stirring period; even I, as a child, was often told thrilling stories by my father as he related the exploits of his grandfather.

The following quotations from annals of Keene tell the story in succinct form. "Nathan Blake and party from Wrentham laid out house-lots, roads, voted to build a Meeting House and took up pioneer work in every direction. The Blake house at the south end of the street was headquarters for meetings, a general rallying point. He with two others essayed to spend the winter of 1736-7 in their new quarters, but the terrible cold and lack of provisions soon proved too much for their endurance and in February their provisions were exhausted and hearing nothing from Heaton, whom they had sent to Northfield for meal, he and Smeed left the oxen they had brought from Wrentham, with free access to the hay gathered during the summer, and on snowshoes proceeded either to Deerfield or Wrentham. Anxious for the oxen they returned early in the spring, finding them much emaciated, feeding upon twigs and dead grass. The oxen recognized their owners and exhibited so much pleasure it drew tears from their eyes. In 1738 the town voted to build a Fort and in this, as in all town activities, among the foremost is always found the name of Nathan Blake.

"The settlers acquired the habit of repairing for safety through the night to the Forts, but even with the knowledge that Indians were lurking in the vicinity, the men must go to their barns to feed and care for their cattle. Early on 23 April 1746, Mr. Blake had gone to his barn; upon hearing the cry of Indians he determined that his cattle should not be burnt if the barn was fired; he threw open the door, letting them loose, and attempted to leave by a back door and find safety by crossing the river. He had gone but a few steps when he was hailed by Indians who had been concealed in a shop between him and the street. Seeing their guns pointed at him and knowing he was in their power, he gave himself up. They shook hands with him, he told them he had not breakfasted, to which they smilingly replied, 'it must be a poor Englishman who cannot go to Canada without his breakfast.' Passing a cord around his arms above the elbows fastening them close to his body, they gave him to the care of one of their party who conducted him to the woods. The number of Indians was about 100. After travelling about two miles, they came to a small stony brook. The Indian stooped to drink, and as Blake's hands were not confined, he thought he could easily take up a stone and beat out his brains. He silently prayed for direction, and his next thought was, that he should always regret that he had killed an Indian in that situation, and he refrained. No particulars of his journey to Canada have been obtained, except that he passed by Charlestown. At Montreal he with another prisoner of the name of Warren, were compelled to run the gauntlet. Warren received a blow in the face, knocked down the Indian who gave it, upon which he was assaulted by several who beat him unmercifully, making him a cripple for life. Blake exhibited more patience and fortitude, received no considerable injury. He was then conducted to Quebec and thence to an Indian village several miles north of that place, called Conissadawga. He was a strong athletic man and possessed many qualities which procured him the respect of the savages. He could run with great speed, and in all the trials to which he was put, and they were many and severe, he beat every antagonist. Not long after his arrival at the village, the tribe lost a chief by sickness. As soon as his decease was made known, the women repaired to his wigwam and with tears, sobs and clamorous lamentations mourned his death. The funeral ceremonies performed, the men sought Blake, dressed him in the Indian costume, and invested him with all the authority and privileges of the deceased, as one of the chiefs of the tribe, and as husband of the widow. In the family to which he now stood in the relation of father, there were, as he has often remarked, several daughters of uncommon beauty. Yet, notwithstanding this good fortune, he still had difficulties to encounter. The tribe was divided into two parties, his friends and his enemies. The former consisted of the great mass of the tribe, who respected him for qualities, to which they had not equal pretensions; the latter of those who were envious of his success, and had been worsted in their contests with him. These, to humble his pride, sent far into the northern wilderness and procured a celebrated Indian runner to run against him. At the time assigned, the whole tribe assembled to witness the race; and a Frenchman, from Quebec, happened to be present. Perceiving the excitement among them, he advised Blake to permit himself to be beaten, intimating that fatal consequences might ensue if he did not. The race was run, and Blake, as advised by the Frenchman, permitted his antagonist to reach the goal a moment before he did. He persisted, however, after his return from captivity, in declaring that he might have beaten him if he had tried. The event of the race restored harmony to the tribe, and Blake was permitted to live in peace. But remembering the family he had left, he felt anxious to return to his home. After much intercession, the tribe proposed that if he would build a house like those of the English, he should be permitted to go to Quebec. Presuming that, when there, he could more easily obtain his liberty, he gladly acceded to the proposition; and with such tools as the Indians possessed, he prepared the necessary timber, splitting the boards from the tree, and soon completed his task. He then went to Quebec and gave himself up to the French. He had been there but a short time, when his Indian wife came in a canoe to reclaim him. He refused to return, but she soliciting and even demanding it, he declared to her that if he should be compelled to set out with her he would overturn the canoe and drown her, upon which she concluded to return without him. In the fall, the French commandant gave Blake his election to pass the winter as a laborer with a farmer, in the vicinity of Quebec, or be confined in the common gaol. He chose the latter, and had no reason to regret his choice, as he had a comfortable room and sufficient rations assigned him. He remained in confinement until spring, when his liberation was procured in the manner which will now be related.

"As a connecting link in the chain of events mention must be made of Lieutenant Pierre Raimbout, a young Frenchman who commanded a small squad of Indians in an attempted raid near Ashuelot at Winchester in the autumn of 1747. He was fired upon by a party of Colonial Scouts, who supposing him to be mortally wounded, took from him his arms, and fearing the report of the musket would attract the remainder of the party they hastened on to Northfield.

"The Indians returning and finding their commander wounded, but alive, removed him to the bank of the river, where they left him, and being alarmed for their own safety precipitately fled to Canada, informing his father that his son had been killed by the English.

"Raimbout remained as he was left, until the next morning — when feeling his strength revive he succeeded in rising and after much difficulty reached a road leading to Northfield, where upon arrival he surrendered himself. He was conveyed to the home of Dr. Doolittle who was a surgeon, physician and clergyman of the place, where he was carefully attended and his wounds completely cured.

"Raimbout being anxious to return to Canada and to his father's home, and having much influence, he succeeded in his application to the Governor of Massachusetts in effecting an exchange of prisoners; promising that not only Samuel Allen of Deerfield should be returned to his home, but that one other prisoner should be included, it was arranged that if the Governor of Canada ratified this compact the second prisoner should be Nathan Blake. A party consisting of John Hawks, Matthew Clesson and John Taylor, escorting Raimbout left Deerfield in Feb. 1748. Mrs. Blake fearing that the French Governor might refuse to ratify the engagement of the Lieutenant furnished Hawks with funds to redeem her husband. At Montreal, Raimbout was delivered to the French Commander — the party then proceeded to Quebec, stopping on the way at the home of Raimbout senior, whose joy was great at seeing before him the son he supposed dead. Arriving at Quebec, he made application for the release of Blake, according to the engagement of Raimbout. The Governor refused, alleging that the Lieutenant had no authority to make such an engagement. Hawks persisted in urging his claim as a matter of right. He also appealed to his feelings, as a man, representing to him the forlorn situation of Mrs. Blake, and the expectations she had been permitted to indulge, and prayed that he might not be sent back the messenger of disappointment. The Governor still refusing, he declared that he could not return to her without her husband, and requested to know what sum was required as his ransom, adding that he would endeavor to pay it. The Governor, pausing a moment, replied, 'take him and keep your money.' Expressing his gratitude, Hawks hastened to the prison, and gave to Blake the glad tidings of his release. On their way to New England the party again stopped at the house of old Raimbout. The neighbors were invited; a sumptuous feast was prepared; 'wine,' to use the language of Blake 'was as plenty as water.' The evening and the night were spent in dancing, the happy father and mother opening the ball, and displaying all the liveliness of youth.

"Quebec, it should be remembered, had then been settled nearly a century and a half, and was far in advance of all the English colonies in refinement of manners. To the rough and sedate Englishmen, who had seldom been out of the woods, the whole scene was novel and excited emotions, to which they had not been accustomed. It was about the middle of April when the three envoys with their two exchange captives left Montreal on their return. Raimbout with a guard of soldiers was sent with them as far as the ridge of the Green Mountains between Otter Creek and Black River. When leaving them the French soldiers advised them to hasten on, avoiding the regular trail. On 27 April they followed down Black river, reaching the Fort at Great Falls the next day — and on the following day Fort Dummer, and on 30 April were in Deerfield, where there was great rejoicing." It is probable that Mr. Blake at once joined his family in Wrentham, Mass., but in 1750 he is again recorded among the active citizens of Keene, as one of Capt. Hobbs company to fight the Indians, also engaged in building (upon the site of his log-cabin burned by the Indians) a fine strong home of heavy hard-wood timber, the partitions of yellow pine, 2 or 3 inches thick, set on end, a sort of block house, for protection from the Indians. This house was on Main Street, corner of Winchester Street. In 1751 his name appears on a petition to Gov. Wentworth for Incorporating the Town of Keene. (See illustration, pages 35-36.) In 1754 he was on the list of selectmen and in 1764 Town-Meetings are recorded as being held at the house of Nathan Blake. 1771 he was petit juror for the several courts, and 1773 on the Alarm List. In 1775 his name is among those who signed resolutions to the Continental Congress, pledging their lives and fortune to oppose the hostile proceedings of the British Fleets and Armies, against the United American Colonies. In this year 1775 also recorded "Grist Mill and Saw Mill sold to Nathan Blake," and for many years known as "Blake's Mills," and conducted by him and his sons. Nathan Blake was ever interested in church work, working to found the church, to raise money for support of the minister and to build a parsonage. With his family he lived on his farm during the later years of his life. His wife Elizabeth died 19 July 1804 aged 83 and is buried alongside of her husband in the Washington St. Cemetery, Keene. In 1805, at the age of 94, he married Mrs. Mary Brinton "a fascinating widow of 64." "Mr. Nathan Blake died Aug. 4th 1811 in the hundredth year of his age" (see illustration), and as I stood at his grave and read this record, knowing that his long life had been filled with stirring episodes, had been consecrated to duty, patriotism and loyalty to friends and country, I bowed my head in reverence to the memory of a great-grandfather, saying: "He has proved his truth by his endeavor."

FAIRBANKS FAMILY.

FAIRBANKS Jonathan¹ came from Sowerby in the West Riding of Yorkshire, England to Boston, Mass., in year 1633; he married Grace Lee, probably in England, and in 1636 settled in Dedham, where he built the noted "Old Fairbanks House," which is still standing as an ancient landmark; the oldest dwelling-house in New England, that for the same period of time has been continuously owned and occupied by the builder and his lineal descendants. This house is now historically famous and is an object of great interest to many visitors to the old town of Dedham. It is warped and worn by the sunshine and the storms of its nearly 300 years. (See illustration.) On the 10 of 7 mo. 1636, he with others signed the petition to "Dedham Covenant." He joined the church there 14 d. 6 m. 1646. By his will executed 4 June 1668 (the year of his death, 5 Dec. 1668), he bequeathed his whole movable estate to his wife Grace. To his second son George, To dau. Mary wife of Christopher Smith To Jonas, Jonathan and Sarah eldest daughter of his sonne John and to Ralph Day my sonne-in-law (husband of Susan) and to each of the four children of the said Ralph. Finally bequeaths to John eldest son all his house and land. His wife died 28 Dec. 1673.

POND FAMILY.

POND Robert¹ was from County Suffolk, England. Settled in Dorchester, Mass., about 1632, though not found in the list of Dr. Harris; was there to partake, 1636, in division of Cow Common. He died 1637. The inventory of his estate was taken 27 Dec. 1637. A chest of carpenter's tools and pump tools are mentioned. Mary and William Pond petitioned the Court for administration of the estate, and it was ordered 10 May 1648. His widow married in 1649 or 1650, Edward Shepard of Cambridge, who conveyed 24 Feb. 1650/1 to John Blackman, son-in-law to the late Robert Pond, one half the house and lands which Widow Pond had owned. In the memoirs by Rev. Mr. Mitchell written in 1658, we find this extract. "Mary now wife of Edward Shepard was dismissed hither from Church at Dorchester and is in full communion with us. Her daughter Mary Pond, baptized at Dorchester was eleven years old at her mothers joyning with us (1643)." Mrs. Mary Pond lived at Cambridge, she being widow of Robert Pond, who died in 1637; it is also probable that she brought other children with her to Cambridge and that Daniel Pond who married Abigail Shepard (daughter of Edward Shepard) was her son.

CHILDREN:

ROBERT, b. in England, m. Mary Ball abt. 1656, d. before middle life.

WILLIAM, b. in England, m. Mary Dyer abt. 1640, d. 4 April 1690.

MARY, bapt. at Dorchester, 1632, m. John Blackman, d. ———.

SHEPARD FAMILY.

SHEPARD Edward¹ bought land in Cambridge 1639, and we gather from memoirs by Rev. Mr. Mitchell written in 1658 that "Edward Shepard was a member of his church in full communion in 1643. So also was his wife Violet, deceased. Their children were in minority when he joyned, Abigail (now living at Dedham) was 12 years, Deborah (also at Dedham) 10, and Sarah (dwelling at Braintree) 7." His wife Violet died 9 Jan. 1648–9, and he married for his second wife, Mrs. Mary Pond, who was the widow of Robert Pond. His name appears in the town and county records in various relations. He is mentioned in the records of the steward of Harvard College, 1654 of two importations of wheat "from aboard Edward Shepheard's vessel." In his will dated 1 Oct. 1674, he calls himself of Cambridge and a mariner, mentions wife Mary, son John, daughters Elizabeth and Deborah. To the children of Daniel Pond which he had by my daughter Abigail, and to daughter Sarah. He gave a deed to W. Fessenden, 18 Feb. 1679, and his will was proved 20 Aug. 1680. So he must have died between these two dates.

POND Daniel¹ (Robert¹), son of Robert and Mary Pond. He married 1st Abigail, daughter of Edward and Violet Shepard of Cambridge, before 1652. She died at Dedham, 5 July 1661 and he married 2nd Ann Edwards, 18 Sept. 1661. He is called a husbandman and appeared in the town of Dedham, Mass., about the year 1652, having purchased land on the 30 March that year. He was received into full communion in the Dedham church 8 : 11 : 1653. He was one of the Selectmen of the town in 1660. In 1661 the southern portion of Dedham was set off into a separate township called Wrentham and he immediately became an owner of real estate there, obtaining a grant of Lot No. 15 as early as 22 March 1662/3. He probably never lived in Wrentham. He was a Lieutenant of the militia and took the freeman's oath in 1690. He died 4 Feb. 1697/8 at Dedham. His will was made 2 : 12 : 1697/8 and proved 3 March 1697/8. In it he mentions wife Anne, sons John, Ephraim, Robert, and daughter Abigail Day. "To children of daughter Rachel Stone, etc To daughter Hannah Devotion etc., To sons William, Caleb and Jabez, etc and To daughter Sarah Pond etc etc." His widow Anne died 6 June 1732, age 92 years.

Moseley at Dunstable and is paid £02 : 14 : 09 on the 24 July 1676, and on the 24 Aug. 1676 he is again paid and called of "Dedham Town." PUFFER FAMILY.

POFFER George,¹ Braintree, was granted land by Boston on the 24th of Feb. 1639/40 for five heads, that is, twenty acres, at Mount Wolleston now Braintree. Of him nothing more is known but the family was continued under the name of Puffer by two persons who may confidently be called his sons, and the widow Puffer who died at Braintree 12 Feb. 1677 was undoubtedly his relict. Mary Puffer, "an aged woman," who died at the same place, 22 July 1700, is perhaps more likely to have been his daughter than the widow of his eldest son.

EVERETT FAMILY.

EVERETT Richard.¹ I know nothing of the date or place of his birth. He married for his first wife, Mary. Who she was and date of her death I know not. He married second, 29 June 1643 at Springfield, Mary Winch, who came in the ship "Francis" to Ipswich, April 1638, age 15, a member of the family of Rowland Stebbins.

The first positive record we have of him is at Agawan (now Springfield), on 15 July 1636, when he witnessed a deed from the Indians transferring land to William Pynchon and others. He is described in the History of Springfield as "Mr. Pynchons trader." On 18 Aug. 1636 he was at Watertown and attended the first recorded meeting of the proprietors of the new town called Contentment, name afterwards changed to Dedham. His name was then spelled and for several years after "Richard Evered." He was admitted freeman in 1646 and was Selectman of Dedham in the year 1660-1 and the town records there give a complete description of the town offices held by him, together with his church membership, the christening of his children, the amount of his yearly taxes, together with the date of his death which occurred on the 3 July 1682. His will was made 12 May 1680 and probated 25 July 1682; bequeaths to wife Mary, sons Jediah, John and Samuel, daughters Abigail Puffer and Ruth; James, Daniel and Mary, children of deceased daughter Mary and James Macherwithy; and grandchild Sarah Fisher. The inventory of his estate is given as £277 : 15 s. 11 d. His wife Mary lived for several years after.

He was at Duxboro, Mass., 1636–7–8; at Braintree, Mass., 1640; at Taunton, 1641; at Duxboro again 1642 and 3; a proprietor at the settlement of Bridgewater in 1644, when allotment was made to him in 1645, March 28, and withdrew from the jurisdiction in 1652. Edward Hall had a family in Braintree from 1650 to 1655. He removed to Rehoboth in 1655. On 26 May 1668, lots were drawn for meadow lands in the North purchase (now Attleboro), Cumberland, R. I., and part of Norton and Mansfield. He made his will 23 Nov. 1670, died 27 Nov. 1670. His estate was valued at £84. The name of his wife was Esther or Hester, who survived him. The proprietary records of Rehoboth credit him with a fifty-pound right of commonage in 1658 and the widow Hester Hall with the same right in 1671 and John Hall with the same in 1685, and with only one half of that from 1697 to 1715. "Married in Rehoboth, 24 Dec. 1674, Thomas Jorden and Esther Hall." It is possible this was his widow.

H.), was one of the leaders in settling the township and one of the first party of eight persons that came here in 1734, and began the settlement and again in 1735, 36 and 37, was the "Standing Moderator" of the proprietors' meetings and was paid for having represented the proprietors at the general court. His name is first on the list of members at the original organization of the church in 1738. He was designated in the records of 1738 as "Capt.," and was also a physician, the first in town and is called "Dr. Hall of Keene," as given in the Annals, that caused the capture of Pierre Raimbault near Northfield 1747. When the place was abandoned by the families in the spring of 1747, he and several others of the settlers joined the military company of Capt. Josiah Willard, which was stationed here that year and next; was clerk of that company. He buried his wife Dorothy here 15 Jan. 1753 and soon afterwards removed to Pembroke, Mass. We find him a practising physician in that town in 1756; and he was appointed surgeon's mate, afterwards surgeon of Col. Joseph Thatcher's regiment in the expedition to Crown Point in 1757. In 1758 from March to November he was surgeon of Col. Thomas Doty's regiment for the reduction of Canada; and in 1759, March 31 to Dec. 31, surgeon of Col. John Thomas's regiment at Halifax.

He lived on the farm recently known as the "Carpenter farm," the last but one in Keene on the old road to Surry, east side of the river, where he and his sons kept tavern for many years. When the Indian war broke out in 1755 he, hurriedly warned of an attack by the Indians at Upper Ashuelot, hastily gathered his family and started at once for the fort, which was reached in safety. He died at Keene, N. H., 12 Jan. 1776 and his wife died there also 5 Sept. 1798. (See illustration, page 51.)

BLAKE Nathan⁶ (Nathan,⁵ Robert,⁴ John,³ John,² William¹) was born in Keene, N. H., 1 May 1752, fourth child of Nathan and Elizabeth (Graves) Blake. He married at Keene, N. H., 1 May 1777, Bathsheba, daughter of Ebenezer and Bathsheba (Hall) Day. She was born at Keene, N. H., 27 March 1754. It is interesting to look back and recall the stirring times into which he came, his father at this date being active in all town affairs, in church work and working with others for a charter and interceding with Gov. Wentworth for this and a separate township to be called Keene. He doubtless spent many nights as a child in the Fort (and it is recorded of his wife Bathsheba when a baby in 1755: "upon an alarm of Indians coming, Mr. Day (her father) hastened home, saddled his horse and told his wife to quickly make ready to ride to the Fort. Mr. Day taking little Ruth in his arms, Mrs. Day on the pillion behind, tightly grasped a meal sack, into which they had thrust the one year old baby Bathsheba, rode four miles at great speed to the Fort; the meal sack dangling from the saddle; reaching the Fort in safety, upon opening the sack the baby was found to be head downwards," but fortunately my grandmother suffered no serious injury from this perilous escapade). Young Nathan was enjoying the school privileges for which the pioneers had labored; for during the decade from 1660 to 1670 much money was raised for this purpose, and the township divided into four districts. In 1773, we find him on the Muster Roll of the Foot company; thus at 21 he was among the fighting forces; on the Association Test, 1776, and one of Capt. Howlett's company who went to the relief of Ticonderoga in 1777. Nathan Blake 2nd and his wife Bathsheba resided in Keene, where eight children were born to them, two dying in infancy. He with his brothers were owners of cloth dressing, wool carding and dyeing mills, grist and lumber mills, and much land. We find in 1785 much interest and enthusiasm manifested in the erection of a new Meeting House, the pews being sold at auction in advance of the construction of the building; Pew No. 61, price £10. 6 s. to Nathan Blake 2nd. I enjoy this definite bit of information and love to think of my father with his two brothers and three sisters as sitting in Pew 61, imbibing at this early age the principles of religious training and loyalty which were leading traits in his character. In the year 1800, he and his wife with three sons and three daughters removed to Chelsea, Vermont, where they were among the early settlers — had mills, stores and other business enterprises. He died at Chelsea, Vt., 10 Jan. 1813 and his wife died there 4 June 1820, both buried in Chelsea, Vt.

Alphonso Taft, then U. S. minister to Austria or Russia, who kindly gave me not long after the abstract of the Alice Torrey will, found by him in the district Register at Wells. H. F. W. — Also in a letter to H. F. Waters, dated Nov. 6, 1884, Hon. Alphonso Taft says: 'The line as I find it is William, who died in 1557, leaving a will. Phillip, his son who died in 1604, leaving a will — William, his son, who survived his son Phillip, but the date of whose death we have not — Phillip, who died in 1621, leaving a will, named his four sons who emigrated to America.' Mr. Taft also furnished, from the Bishop's Register at Wells, the following for Combe St. Nicholas: "

1608, William, son of Phillip Torrie was bapt. 21 day of December.

1608, Agnes, daughter of Joseph Combe was baptized the 4th of January.

1629, William Torrey was married unto Agnes Combe the 17 of March.

1639, Jane, wife of William Torrey was buried the 27 day of April.

Hon. Alphonso Taft was father to Ex-President Wm. H. Taft, Henry F. Waters, author of "Gleanings in England," was an authority of high rank — being sent by Harvard College on research work for historical purposes. He died in 1913, Salem, Mass.

From authentic record 'tis proved that the above Agnes Combe lived only one year after marriage. Wm. Torrey then married Jane Haviland who died 1639, was mother of two sons brought to America — Samuel, b. 1632, William, b. 1638.

The photographs of the church of Combe St. Nicholas, which we fortunately secured, were taken by Prof. William Torrey Harris of Washington, D. C. (See illustration, pages 62-64.)

HAVILAND FAMILY IN FRANCE.

Near Barfleur on the north coast of France, the river Saire enters the English Channel and but three flights of an arrow above the river mouth, lies the strong Castle of Haverland. (A historian of 1160 tells us, and goes on to describe its attack from the Norse Vikings during King Alfred's reign, 888 A.D.) Early French records at St. Lo in Normandy, and an old document states that this castle "d'Abellent" was the cradle of the Haveland family, and that the names of the Seigneurs of that house have been written in numbers of ways. Old seals attached to early charters and documents of the 11th, 12th, 13th, 14th and 15th centuries show the name spelled Abellant, Avilland, Haverland, Havellant, etc., etc. — but they surround the same device, a three-turretted castle which was the Haviland Coat-of-Arms. But a more definite introduction seems to come from Guernsey, one of the Channel Islands just across the peninsula from the Castle de Heverland. Near that castle lived a Norman Lord (which we will call No. 1 Haverland of the first generation), who in 1061 was dispatched by Duke William, to the relief of Isle of Guernsey which had been attacked by pirates. Success was rewarded by a grant to him and his followers of one-half of the Island. From the fact that five years later, records prove the Havilands to be property owners in Guernsey, it is surmised that they were numbered with the "Dukes" followers. This was at the time of the Conquest of England by William the Conqueror. The changes brought about by William resulted in the Saxon nobility being deprived of their rank and their estates and titles and Coats-of-Arms, and given to the Normans. All lands were held directly from the King on condition of military or other service. These large apportionments of land carried with them the titles of Baronet or Lord, and their houses were called Manor Houses.

From another source we learn that "The ancient Guernsey family of De Havilland derived its name from the fiefs of Haverland situated near Valognes* in Normandy, of which they were lords in A.D. 1050." In Guernsey they were tenants, in Capite, as early as 1176 of another fief to which they had given the name, and by which it is still known. In the "Haviland Chronicles," the following name is counted No. 3 in line of descent. (No. 2 seems to be missing.) Among those accompanying Duke William across the Channel in 1066, when he so successfully asserted his claims to the English throne was one (No. 3) Sieur de Hav-erlain. No. 4 is missing. The next on record is Robert⁶ baron of Haverland. His name appears in 1130 A.D. as a witness to a deed. Robert de Haverland⁶ was in 1179 A.D. Deputy Governor of Guernsey. Robert Baron de Haverland⁷, whose name appears as a witness in 1219 to a charter of Philip d'Aubigne, granting lands in Guernsey to the Monastery of St. Michael's Mount. William⁸ 1233 Lord of Haverland accompanied Richard Cœur de Lion to Palestine, and in memory of this crusade added two martlets to his paternal arms. Peter⁹ Lord of Haverland eldest son of William⁸ ceded some land to a Monastery of Montisbourg, 1 Feb. 1260. His green seal is attached to the charter, a castle triple towered, and on each side turret a martlet, surrounded by "S. Petri de Haviland." Bernard de Haverland¹⁰ William de Haverland¹¹ son of Bernard, 1299. Thomas de Haverland¹². William de Haverland¹³ Bernard de Haverland¹⁴ The last four names are in 1331, mentioned as being tenants of the king in Guernsey, under Edward III. Thomas¹⁵, Sieur de Havilland is a notable figure in the family history. From him all who are recognized as belonging to the family are descended. From his eldest son, Thomas¹⁶ the Guernsey line derives, and from James¹⁶ and his wife, Helen de Bevoir, the two English branches of Dorsetshire and Somerset are descended. Thomas Sieur De Haviland, fought with distinguished gallantry at the siege of Mont-Orgueil Castle, Jersey, 1467. He received in reward for his services on that occasion, a patent conferring certain commercial privileges to avail himself of which he established his second son, James¹⁶ at Pool, County Dorset, England, from whom were descended the Havellands of Wilkswood House in the isle of Purbeck, now extinct.

* Valognes is 22½ miles southwest of Barfleur.

HAVILAND FAMILY IN ENGLAND.

de HAVILLAND James¹⁶, second son of Sieur Thomas¹⁵, was born about 1440 and married before leaving Guernsey, built up a thriving commerce which outlived him more than a century. The coat-of-arms he brought with him shows a third change in the Haviland coat-of-arms, and three triplet turreted castles appear "to difference the several branches of the family, also a motto Dominus Fortissima Turris," had been added (no crest). The absence of a crest is evidence that the family was noble before 1484 A.D. The variation in the name de Haviland from generation to generation is curious, the prefix "de" was dropped by the English branch about 1500.

In 1502 he added at his own charge, the north Aisle of the Church of St. James, which was and continued to be the burial place of the Havilands, so long as any of them resided in the town. The church was Romanist and had four altars with attendant priests, James and his wife supporting the service for that aisle, and after their death the eldest descendant living became trustee.

In the north aisle over the arches cut in the stone in large letters are these inscriptions with the Havilland and de Beauvoir arms at either side: — "These six arches were made at the charge of James de Havelland¹⁶ and Helene his wife on whose souls God have mercy. Anno Domini 1503."

At the east end of this aisle is a stone retaining marks of effigies, lables and coats-of-arms. It was for James de Havelland¹⁶ and his wife, but the brasses are gone, although in 1749 the arms were to be seen there, and also in the glass of the windows.

In 1494 he was Mayor of Poole.

HAVELAND James¹⁷ is mentioned only as having a wife Julia and an only son Christopher.¹⁸ The wife Julia was buried at Pool the 4 June 1550.

HAVILAND Christopher¹⁸, was the only son of James¹⁷ and Julia Haveland, born at Pool, Dorcet, 1512. He married at Pool, 16 Sept. 1544, Cecilia Mann. (She was the daughter of "John Mann of the Westgate House, Canterbury." This aldermanry of the gates was an honored position. It demanded the furnishing of five knights for its defense, and it is interesting to know that the arms of that family shows five spears issuing from battlement.) He settled in Pool and was Mayor for the year 1569. He was the ancestor of "Haviland-Burke" the famous English "Genealogist," the Haviland of Ditton Hall and De Havilland of Langford Court, County Somerset. His wife Cecilia was buried at Pool 26 Aug. 1586. He was buried in the same place 24 Jan. 1589/90.

GOD'S most gracious preservation of England from Spanish Invasion, Aug. 2, 1588, and Popish
Treason, Novem. 5, 1605.

To my Posterity.

God's ancient Church two solemn feasts did keep,
On two set days, by his own Word directed.
a When Pharaos's Hoste was drowned in the deep,
b And proud Haman's treason were detected.

Two works of equell grace, but greater wonder,
The Lord hath done for us, past all man's reason;
When Papists did attempt to bring us under,
c By Spanish huge army and damn'd d Percie's treason.

I, and my house these e great things will remember,
And in remembrance sanctifie two days,
In August one, the other in November,*
f Both made by God, for us to give him praise.

Dear children, charge your children after you
Still to observe these feasts as I now do.

His mansion still stands in Small Street, and his monument is to be seen at St. Warburghe. He was one of the early merchant princes whose counting-house was the four bronze pillars, called "the Nails," which now stands in front of the exchange. — The fact of his life spanning the event connected with Spain's defeat and the failure of the gunpowder plot explains his interest in their commemoration.

TORREYS IN AMERICA

ORIGINAL TORREY EMIGRANTS.

Previous records have shown the genealogy of this family from 1500 to 1640 in England and well authenticated dates prove that the William Torrey born in 1608 was the 5th in line in this record, but for convenience we now assume the numeral (1) for him and his brothers as the first of this name in America. Will also state that all the records of the family here for the first two decades used the name "Torry." Then we find the letter (e) introduced to read "Torrey" on all documents and tombstones. In the year 1640 William,¹ with his two young sons of 8 and 2 years of age, also his three brothers, James,¹ Philip¹ and Joseph¹ and Cousin George Fry came to New England. William and Joseph first located in Weymouth, Mass., James in Scituate and Phillip in Roxbury.

James¹ married Ann the daughter of Elder William Hatch, 2 Nov. 1643 at Scituate, Mass. In "Davis Ancient Landmarks of Plymouth" is found the statement that "the first clothing mill in Plymouth Colony was erected in 1643 by James Torrey on the first herring brook in Scituate." He was in military life and a lieutenant, was a man of great usefulness and respectability, was accidentally killed by an explosion of powder in Scituate 6 July 1665, leaving five sons and five daughters.

Phillip¹ settled at Roxbury, Mass., and married Mary, widow of John Scarborough, 1 Oct. 1647. In the Suffolk Deeds dated 5 March 1673/4, he made deposition that reads "Phillip Torrey age 59 years or ther about heretofor of Combe St. Nicholas in the County of Somersett untill the year 1640 (yeoman) in that year removeing to New England with William Torrey & Samuell his son both of the Sd Comb, St. Nicholas with whom hee Lived for severall years, & beeing arived in New England Settled & hath ever since Lived in Roxbury, in the County of Suffolk in New England, etc." — He died at Roxbury, 12 May 1686, and it is not known that any of his direct descendants are now living.

Joseph¹ came to America with his three brothers and settled at Weymouth, Mass. Although not in our line of descent his work should be included as it is one more life record of able and patriotic devotion to the colonies, and shows of what moral and mental fibre were the pioneers. He removed to Rehoboth, Mass., in 1643, and then to Newport, R. I., in 1644, and on the 3 July 1644, he with 29 others signed a compact for Good Government. In 1647 he and Obidiah Holmes were released from paying part of their bonds for good behaviour for not attending Court. Was a Juryman in 1647-8 and Freeman 7 June 1648. "On 2 Oct. 1650, He & wife were prosecuted by the Grand Jury for holding of Meetings upon the Lords day from house to house contrary to orders of the Court." Doubtless the feuds and schisms of the seventh Day Baptists with the bodies calling themselves Baptists, Antimonians and Memonites, made the life of the new colony one of strife at that period; in which Joseph Torrey and his friends took an active part.

In 1652 at Newport a Samuel Hubbard writes, "I and my wife had hands laid on us by brother Joseph Torrey." From 1652 to 1674 we find his name constantly as either Commissioner, or General Recorder, or holding some important office in the Colony. 26 May 1664, Joseph Torrey writes to Samuel Hubbard. Misquamicut (Westerly), Dear and much respected brother Hubbard and brother Robert and Sister Ruth; though yor condition be at present a lonesome condition with respect to that fellowship and communion that sometimes you have enjoyed, yet I hope you are under such fruitful seasons with respect to the drops of Heaven, that your actions that you are necesitated to be laboring about, will put you in mind of that building that shall never decay; The object your eyes behold are good; it is spring time, the earth is putting forth its strength, the trees blossom and bud, and that which hath long been kept down by the winter cold doth now receive life and vigour anew from the shinings of the sun. I hope it is so with your hearts. I rest and remain yours in any service of love, in the best relation, Joseph Torrey." — 1667, May 13, he and three others were ordered to go forth from house to house throughout Newport and the villages and precincts thereof to take a precise and exact account of all the arms and ammunition and weapons of war each person is furnished with. At the same date he was a committee with two others, required with all possible speed to mount the great guns on carriages. He held the office of Lieutenant some years. 1670, June 29, he and two others were allowed the sum of £10. 10s. for service as commissioner to Conn. — 1671, Jan. 30, he was allowed £6.8s.8d. for several services — We gain much light upon the exact state of affairs by a letter of Samuel Hubbard who writing 1671, Dec. 16, to his family in Westerly alludes to the difference between those who held Seventh Day views and the rest of the congregation. Mr. Hubbard gave his views in favor, "Brother Torrey said they required not my faith, they replied fiercely, it was a tumult, J. Torrey stopped at last." — In 1671 and '72 Joseph Torrey was Attorney General of Rhode Island. A bit of history may prove very helpful at this point, showing exactly the affairs of Rhode Island.

In 1636 Roger Williams was banished from the Salem Puritan Colony for his free religious beliefs, — he fled and by boat landed at the spot and founded what is now Providence — later he was joined by John Clarke, a physician who left England and came to America with a party of whom Ann Hutchinson was one, was banished from Boston, he settled in Newport, R. I., and became a preacher and leader there; Joseph Torrey was an Elder in his church, and evidently a working factor in all the stirring events of that stormy period — for in the year 1675 came the famous King Phillip War which is the key to a letter sent by Samuel Hubbard to Dr. Edward Stanett of London, dated 29 Nov. 1676, saying "In beginning of those troubles of the wars Lieut. Joseph Torrey, elder of Mr. Clark's church having but one daughter, living at Squamicut, Misqamicut, and his wife being there, he said unto me, 'come let us send a boat to Squamicut, my all is there and part of yours.' We sent a boat so as his wife and daughter, and his son-in-law and their children and my two daughters and 11 children and an apprentice boy all came and brother Crandall and his family with as many others could possibly come, etc." He also alludes to the death of Mr. Torrey as having occurred this year (1676).

FIRST GENERATION.

WILLIAM TORREY AND JANE HAVILAND.

TORREY Capt. William,¹ who is 5th in line of descent in England and of the 1st generation in America, was born at Combe St. Nicholas, Somerset, England, and baptized there 21 Dec. 1608 the son of Phillip and Alice Torrey. He married for his first wife, Agnes, daughter of Joseph Combe, 17 March 1629. She died about 1630. (For the following is found on record.) "1630, Feb. 14. Was issued a commission to William Torrey late husband of Agnes Torrey, als. Combe deceased, whilst she lived of Combe St. Nicholas." He then married for his second wife, Jane, daughter of Robert and Elizabeth (Guise) Haviland about 1630 or 31. She died and was buried 17 April 1639, being the mother of Samuel, born 1632 and William born 1638. He again married a third wife, and neither her name, place or date of marriage are known, the latter, however, occurred before 1641. She was the mother of all the children born in America, he having come here in 1640 and settled at Weymouth, Mass. In him centers our chief interest and direct line of descent. He was a man of strong character and evidently a leader of men, for we find constant records of his activities in the town affairs. In 1641 he was a member of the Artillery company (later known as the "Ancients & Honorables"); in 1642 a Freeman. From 1642 to 1649 excepting 1646 & 1647 was representative to the General Court from Weymouth and again from 1649 to 1666, he was clerk of the deputies. In Johnson's History of New England, it is said "he was a good penman and was usually clerck of the deputies" — also "he had great qualifications for the place." We find many records of payment made him for these duties and in 1650 he was given a grant of "Slate Island" (just off Weymouth Neck), later in "1683 a grant of 500 acres of land for his patriotism and loyal service." His place of abode in Weymouth is still known, although the dwelling is demolished; yet from well described boundaries still existing, we place it on the east side of neck road, opposite "Capt. Torrey's Cove," now called "Sampson's Cove," North Weymouth; Bridge Street, the direct road to Hingham, passes through his home lot, this is a well located and sightly point, giving a view of the shore and Back River. (See illustration.) Many most interesting records show him an active factor in colony and town affairs, in which he is always called Capt. William Torrey, being a captain of Weymouth militia. He was a deputy in 1679 and 80. Was invariably chosen a selectman of the town; was magistrate and accorded the power to marry, by the General Court for many years. He was chosen deputy in May 1690 after the overthrow of Andros; but his death occurred June 10, following.

He had received in England a liberal education and was proficient in the Latin tongue; which here in the colony placed him in the front rank of importance and service. He educated and fitted his son Samuel for Harvard College. He was constantly serving on Committees pertaining to schools and educational matters; was chosen among others to pass upon the merits of John Eliot's translation of the Indian Bible — also one of others to judge of the merit of "The First New England History" by William Hubbard in 1679. In 1687 he wrote a "Discourse on Futurities or Things to Come," a curious essay on the speedy coming of the Messiah, which later, in 1757, was published by his family, and is commented upon as showing a great knowledge of scripture; the only copy now known to exist is in the Public Library of Boston. The record and name of wife and date of his third marriage are not to be found, but entries of the birth of 5 children, born in Weymouth are to be seen, among them being a son Angel, the progenitor of Ex-President William H. Taft on his mother's side. In his will they are all named, and interesting extracts follow which show him to have been a man of wealth and of goodly intent to this third wife and his numerous family. He died in Weymouth 10 June 1690 — and probably buried in old cemetery Weymouth. Although the tombstones of many of the Torrey name are still in excellent condition, among them his sons, their wives and children, we fail to find Capt. William Torrey, but in the group of these graves, high on the sightly hill, is one of marked distinction, of costly aspect, but the nameplate is missing, which we, as well as some historians believe to be his last resting place. (See illustration.) The research and study involved to find these early records leaves one with a glow of enthusiasm and inspiration for "plain living and high thinking" which is involved in the great sacrifices of these early settlers; with a sense of profound reverence and deep gratitude that of such were one's ancestors. His will of 15 May 1686, follows: "I William Torrey Sr. of Weymouth, in New England, etc., first to Samuel Torrey my eldest son, shall have the 500 acre lot lately granted to me by the General Court. Second, my Wife to enjoy my dwelling house $\frac{1}{2}$ of the land, and $\frac{1}{2}$ meadow fresh and salt in the lower Plantation. Third, William Torrey my second son shall have $\frac{1}{2}$ orchard $\frac{1}{2}$ upland meadow mowing grass. I have given him 3 acres of land, whereupon he hath built a house. My will is that she (my Wife) retain so much and what remains over and above to hand over to her sons Josiah and Angel Torrey, to be improved for her. My Will is that my grand daughter Haywood and Micijah to have one part of Books, Josiah another and Angel a third." "Wm. Chard and Joseph Dyer made oath that they did see Capt. Wm. Torrey late of Weymouth, sign will." The Inventory of Capt. Torrey's property amounted to £360-10s-6, proved 17 July 1690.

Since the printing of this Genealogy we learn from well authenticated records the name of the third wife of Capt. William Torrey to have been Elizabeth Fry, born in Combe St. Nicholas, England, daughter of Edward Fry and sister to George Fry who came to America on the same ship. They were married before immigrating to America in 1640. She was the mother of six children, all born in Weymouth.

The fact that in his will of 1686, Capt. William Torrey did not name any of his daughters, led me into the supposition of their early death, but I now find records to the contrary.

Naomi Torrey, according to one record, married John Lowell of Boston. The "Savage" and Lowell Genealogies claim it to have been a Naomi Sylvester, who was born in 1649. John Lowell married a "Naomi" before 1665, probably about 1664, making Naomi Sylvester 15 years of age, a possible but not probable alliance, while the date of birth of Naomi Torrey is 1641, rendering her of a more suitable age. In Rev. Samuel Torrey's Will of 1706, comes much evidence, and we read this item: "I give to Ebenezer Lowell my Kinsman 30£." John and Naomi Lowell of Boston had a son Ebenezer, and only through the marriage of Naomi Torrey to John Lowell could Ebenezer Lowell be kinsman to Rev. Samuel Torrey.

Again, from an authentic, and a very interesting Probate document, comes this information:

"John Lowle, Bond.

"Know all men by these presents That we Naomi Lowle widow & William Griggs, Cooper both of Boston in the county of Suffolke & Josiah Torrey of Mendon in sd. County of Suffolke within their Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England are holden and stand firmly bound and obliged unto William Stoughton Esqr. in full sum of one hundred and Fifty pounds current money of New England. To be paid unto the sd. William Stoughton his Successors in the office of Judge of Probate of Wills and granting Administrations within the sd. County of Suffolke or assigns to the true payment where of we do bind ourselves our heirs Exec^{rs} and Admin^{rs} jointly and severally firmly by these presents. Sealed with our Seales Dated the Twenty seventh day of September 1694."

The natural inference must be that only a sister would call upon Josiah Torrey in Mendon, to assist her in the settlement of her husband's estate. We know that Josiah Torrey of Mendon of that date was son of Capt. William Torrey of Weymouth.

The grand daughter Haywood, mentioned in Capt. William Torrey's Will of 1686, is supposed to have been one of the two daughters, Ruth or Margaret, of John and Naomy Lowell, born 1665 and 1667, and one of whom may have married a Haywood before 1686.

We learn of the marriage of Mary Torrey by Rev. Samuel Torrey's Will of 1706 in which he mentions "To sister Mary Downs," also "To Kinsman, William Downs."

By a clerical error in the birth tables, the name of one daughter, Judith, was omitted, which we here insert and who was mentioned in Rev. Samuel Torrey's Will of 1706 as follows: "To my Kinsman John Hunt son to my sister Judith Hunt deceased." In a Hunt Genealogy we find under Thomas Hunt of Boston, anchor-smith, that he had a wife Judith, and a son John, and on the gravestone of his wife Judith is inscribed, "died 18th Oct. 1693, age 38 years: daughter of William Torrey of Weymouth."

The tables of Capt. William Torrey's children by his 3rd wife should read:

NAOMY, b. at Weymouth 3 Dec. 1641, m. John Lowell of Boston before 1665. Was living in 1693 and died before 1706.

MARY, b. at Weymouth 4 Aug. or 3 Dec. 1642, m. William Downe of Boston before 1682, died after 1706.

MICAJAH, Deacon, b. at Weymouth 12 Oct. 1643, m. Susanna — before 1673, d. at Weymouth 20 Jan. 1710/11, a. 67 y.

JOSIAH, b. [?] 1650, m. Sarah (Wilson) Batt at Medfield, 5 May 1680.

JUDITH, b. abt. 1654, m. Thomas Hunt of Boston before 1674, d. 18 Oct. 1693, a. 38 y.

HEADSTONES OF THE TORREY FAMILIES

REV. SAMUEL TORREY.

It is interesting at this point to diverge enough from the line of descent to give a brief record of Samuel Torrey,² William,¹ as showing the type of character inherited by the Torrey family. Being sent by his father to Harvard College, he had passed through the first prescribed course of study for the three years and would have taken his A.B. in 1650, yet because the term was lengthened to four years he and others left the college; his father had given him his first classics, but he had so improved his opportunities, that he had great repute as a Minister, and was ordained 14 Feb. 1665, to succeed Thomas Thatcher as pastor of the church in Weymouth, to the great satisfaction of the father. He had previously preached at Hull. He was chosen to preach the election sermons in 1674 and 1683 and again in 1695, an honor in no other instance conferred in Massachusetts. He was so highly esteemed for his discretion as to be chosen President of Harvard College in 1681 upon the death of Oakes, and again after the death of Rogers, 1684, but he declined in both instances. The Weymouth town records give abundant proof of his activities as a faithful and devout Minister for more than thirty years.

Reverend T. Prince, writing on 2 April 1757, wrote of him in this wise. "And as my Parents had high Veneration for Him, and he had receiv'd them into his Friendship for the Benefit of Learning and Religion, when I was 10 years of Age, they sent me 45 miles from their House in Sandwich to enjoy the great Privilege of living with Him; and he afterwards always kindly received me at his House where I us'd to call in my Going to and Returning from College I can write of Him from my personal Acquaintance with him Being of a tall and proper Stature, excellent intellectual Powers and Accomplishments and of great and Stead Sanctity, Solidity and Majesty in his Countenance and Conversation. He struck all about Him with singular Reverence; tho' at seasonable Intervals, as at the Table and when his Friends came to visit Him, He would be innocently witty and cheerful; but ever mixed agreeable Instruction with other Entertainment and Diversion. He seem'd superior to all the Ministers who came to see him, who behaved towards Him with distinguishing Deference, And he was a Person of such deep and extensive Views that in Public Affairs of great Difficulty, the Governer, Dep. Governor and Council of the Colony us'd to send to him, tho' 15 miles off (with some other elderly and judicious Ministers in and near Boston) to help them with his wise Observations and Advice. — His Prayers both in the Family and Public and his Sermons were very Scriptural, experimental, pathetical, sensible, flowing from a warm and pious Heart, and with wondrous Freedom and Variety. When He treated on awful Subjects, it was with most awakening Solemnity; but otherwise, He usually express'd Himself with the most tender and moving Affection, when he saw any Fault in any of his Family, He would first only look with a holy and awful Displeasure neither exposing nor rebuking. — I believe He never struck any Person in his life — a look was Terror and Reproof enough, — but then take us alone into his Study and speak with such Tenderness and Tears as to melt us down in a Moment. In his Family Worship, He would often Pray affectionately for every person by name, or by such Description as we all knew, extremely suitable to our various Cases, which wonderfully bound us to Him: as also for others occasionally there, and in a very striking Manner, And I shall never forget the moving Exhortation, Prayers and Tears He us'd to pour out among the Children, at their Catechizing a Monday Mornings at Sun-rise in the Meeting House. Nor had he any affected Tone; but all his Pronuciation was perfectly agreeable to the Nature of the Things delivered, and so as to engage the most lively Attention, — In Conversation with the late Honourable and learned Lawyer, John Read, Esq., as I happened to speak of my living with the Rev. Mr. Torrey of Weymouth; He immediately said. — ' Mr. Torrey! that was the most wonderful Man in Prayer I ever heard; When I was Senior Sophister at College in 1696 there being a Day of Prayer kept by the Association at Newtown, upon some extraordinary occasion, in the House of Public Worship; I and several others went from College to attend the Exercise; where two Prayers made by two ministers beside a Sermon by a third in the Forenoon and the like in the afternoon: and then Mr.

Torrey stood up and pray'd near Two Hours; But all his Prayer so intirely new and various without Tautologies, so exceeding pertinent, so regular, so natural, so free, lively and affecting; that towards the End of his Prayer, hinting at still new and agreeable Scenes of Tho't we cou'd not help wishing Him to enlarge upon them; but the Time obliged Him to close to our Regret, and we could have gladly heard Him an Hour longer: His Prayers so wonderfully enlivened and mov'd the Congregation, that we seem'd not to be sensible of the Time's elapsing till he had finished.' — And such extraordinary Talants were the Reason, why as I have heard, the Association used to appoint Him to bring up in the Rear of their Religious Exercises both in Public and Private. The wife of his Youth was the Daughter of Mr. Secretary Rawson; and tho' He never had any offspring yet over Her Grave He erected a handsome Monument. There was as I remember a singular Esteem and Intimacy between Him and Lieut. Governor Stoughton, the Honourable chief Justice Samuel Sewall, Esq; the Rev. Mr. Joshua Moody, the Rev. Mr. Vice President Willard, the Rev. Mr. Hobert of Newtown and the Rev. Mr. Thacher of Milton."

At the Weymouth Height cemetery we find two impressive tombs of classic form such as were used by people of distinction, bearing the following inscriptions: "Here lyes intered ye body of the Rev. Mr. Samuel Torrey pastor of the church of Christ in Waymouth aged 75 years — died April ye 21st 1707." — The other inscribed thus: "Mrs. Mary Torrey age 50 years died on 10th Sept. 1692" — both situated upon a hill of great beauty of form and location, with tall savin trees marking boundaries and standing as sentinels over their graves. This old cemetery is truly of unique beauty, and if any descendants of the Torrey name have a love for the beautiful they may be sure 'tis a right-ful inheritance — for in every spot chosen by these early comers either for residence or burial they have selected sightly spots with grand views. (See illustration, page 84). His 2nd wife was Mary, widow of Captain William Symmes.

SECOND GENERATION.

WILLIAM TORREY AND DEBORAH GREENE.

GREENE FAMILY.

GREENE Robert, gentleman of Bowridge Hill, Gillingham, Dorsetshire, England, taxed on the Subsidy Rolls of Henry VIII, 1543, Edward VI, 1547, Elizabeth, 1558. Date of birth and death unknown. His son Richard Greene, Sr., of Bowridge Hill, England, second son of Robert, died May 1608. His only son Richard Greene, Jr., of Bowridge Hill, England, married Mary Hooker, daughter of John Hooker, member of Parliament from Exeter — their fourth son, John Greene was the first generation in America.

GREENES IN AMERICA.

GREENE John,¹ surgeon, was the son of Richard and Mary (Hooker) Greene, born 1590, married 1st at St. Thomas church, Salisbury, 4 Nov. 1619, Joanna Tattershall. She died 1643. His 2nd wife was Alice Daniels, a widow, and his 3rd wife was Philip. According to Savage, "John Greene was from Hampton in the ship "James," 6 April 1635, and arrived at Boston with wife and five children 3 June 1635, had been of Salisbury, was at Providence in 1636." As the name of John Greene does not appear in Massachusetts Colonial Records in the period intervening between his arrival at Boston and his settlement at Providence it is to be presumed that he made no settlement in Boston or elsewhere in Massachusetts. We know, however, that he was at one time in Salem, where he probably was associated with Roger Williams. On 1 Aug. 1637, he first appeared in Massachusetts Colonial Records in this wise: "Mr. John Greene of New Providence, bound to Quarter Court, first Tuesday of 7th month next for speaking contemptuously of Magistrates, stands bound in 100 marks" (Mass. Col. Rec. Vol. 1, p. 200). On which the action taken is as follows: "John Greene of New Providence fined 20s and forbidden the jurisdiction on pain of fine and imprisonment for speaking contemptuously of Magistrates, 19 Sept. 1637" (Mass. Col. Rec. Vol. I, p. 203), and 12 March 1638 a letter from him being received by the court of Massachusetts, "wherein the court is charged with usurping the power of Christ over the church and mens consciences, etc. He was ordered not to come into that jurisdiction under pain of imprisonment and further censure."

On 8 Oct. 1638 he was one of twelve persons to whom Roger Williams deeded land bought of Cononicus and Miantomomi, 1639, was one of the twelve original members of the 1st Baptist church. Nov. 1642, he bought land called "Occupassuatuxet" of Miantomomi; this land remained in occupancy of his heirs until 1782, and is now called "Spring Green Farm." Jan. 12, 1643, he and ten others bought of Miantomomi for 144 fathoms of wampum, a tract of land called Shawomet (Warwick), and on 12 Sept., 1643, he with others of Warwick was notified to appear at Boston to hear complaint of Pomham and Socconocco, "as to some unjust and injurious dealing toward them by yourselves." They refused to obey the summons, declaring that they were legal subjects of the King of England and beyond the limits of Massachusetts authority. Soldiers were soon sent, who besieged the settlers in a fortified house. In a parley, it was now said, "that they held blasphemous errors, which they must repent of" or go to Boston for trial, and they were soon carried there, except John Greene who fortunately escaped. His companions were imprisoned till the next March and then he and they were banished. His first wife, the mother of his children, died at Conanicut in 1643, having taken refuge there when the Massachusetts troops under Captain Cooke made their raid, on the defenceless and inoffensive inhabitation, of Warwick or as it was then call, Shawomet. In 1644, he and Samuel Gorton and Randall Holden went to England to obtain redress for their wrongs, being obliged to take ship at New York. He and Holden returned successful in their mission, landing in Boston, Sept. 13, 1646.

In the years 1654-55-56-57, we find him a Commissioner, and Freeman in 1655. "His will is dated Dec. 28, 1658, and proved Jan. 7, 1659, his wife Phillip to be executor (except in matters in difference between testator and William Arnold; which son John was to attend to). To wife that part of building now erected, containing large hall and chimney, chamber, garret and little dairy room which butts against the old house etc. All to her for life as also half the orchard and swamp and 2 heifers. — To son John, neck of land called 'Ottupashatuxet' and meddow belonging thereto and also a right of land in purchase of Providence. To son Peter, that other house adjoining etc. also Peter to have yoke of steers and half of the oxen, he providing wife of Testator with thirty loads of wood per year, etc. — To son James, six acres and my great lot with rights at Warwick Neck. To son Thomas meddow and six acre lot etc. To four sons right as purchaser of Warwick. — To four sons and daughter Mary Sweet, what money can be gotten by law or otherwise from William Arnold in the case depending betwixt me and him also my Son John hath recovered half of it for his use according to my former promise. To grand-child Ann Hade a heifer and yearling calf, to be disposed of by her uncle James Greene for her profit. To friend Samuel Gorton 40 shillings." In 1668 Aug. 27. "His widow Phillip deeded to son-in-law (i.e., stepson) John Greene considering her desolate condition and to free herself of many troubles attending it my dwelling house lot and all the rest of estate, household goods etc. except a cow and some small things already given my grand daughter Phillip Greene reserving also wearing apparel. He engaged to provide her with meat, drink, lodging etc. and six pounds per annum and to transport said pay to Newport at his own cost by Sept. 29 annually." He died at Warwick, R. I., about the first week in Jan. 1658/9.

TORREY William² (William¹), son of William and Jane (Haviland) Torrey, born in England, 1638. Came to Weymouth with his father in 1640. He married Deborah, daughter of John and Anne (Almy) Greene before 1670. She was born 10 Aug. 1649. He was a Freeman, 1672. His father gave him a good education and we find by the will of his father, dated 1686, that he had been given three acres, upon which he had built him a house, and it is probable that he acquired most of his father's "Home-Farm." In his will dated 20 Sept. 1715, he calls himself a husbandman of Weymouth, and names his wife Deborah and son John to be executors. To wife Deborah £10, also one-half of West End of Dwelling house. Mentions his five sons John,

THIRD GENERATION.

JOSEPH TORREY AND ELIZABETH SYMMES.

SYMMES FAMILY.

SYMMES William, and his wife were truly religious and firm protestants in the reign of Bloody Queen Mary, 1553 to 1558. Their son, Rev. William Symmes, was ordained to the ministry in 1588; he had two sons, Zechariah and William.

SYMMES FAMILY IN AMERICA.

SYMMES Rev. Zechariah¹ was born 5 April 1599 at Canterbury, County Kent, England. He was educated in Emanuel College at the University of Cambridge and graduated with an A.B. 1620. He first preached as a lecturer at the church of St. Atholines in London in July, 1621. In 1625, he removed to Dunstable for nonconformity, where he remained eight years as rector. He married in England; and owing to religious persecutions, he with his wife and seven children came to America on the ship "Griffin," 18 Sept. 1634, in company with Rev. John Lothrop, William Hutchinson and his wife, the famous prophetess. He and his wife were admitted to the church of Boston, 5 Oct. 1634; afterwards to the church at Charlestown, 6 Dec. 1634, and was invited to become teacher of the church there; was ordained 22 Dec. 1636 and filled that position until 1670. He married a second wife Sarah, "whoes goodness exceeded her stature." He was a man of high character, a strong upholder of the truth; very serviceable to the parish and Colony. There was granted to him 300 acres of land on both sides of the Aberjona river, composed of a 279 acre farm "located southwest of Mystic Pond; west from Increase Nowell, since owened by Gov. Everett; to the north was Woburn and to the north-west was E. Converse etc, 11 acres at Barr Medow" in south part of what is now Stoneham. The farm in 1753 was annexed from Charlestown to Medford. Now it is a part of the town of Winchester. He died at Charlestown, 28 Jan. 1670/1.

He had two wives, but date of marriage of either is not known. He married the first wife Sarah about 1650, (died 1653 at Cambridge (?)), and married the second wife Mary, about 1676. He inherited his father's farm, which was located in what is now Winchester. His daughter Sarah was child of his first wife, as his servant John Warner testified that his master was a widower, when this daughter married in 1672. Farmer's Register says that his second wife Mary, when his widow, married the Rev. Samuel Torrey, 30 July 1695. This Mary Torrey, in her will dated 20 March 1720, names Nathaniel Symes as her son. Mentions eldest son, William Symmes of Charlestown, Timothy Symmes of Scituate. She bequeathed "a small Tichen Bed," "a green rugg," "a pair of Sheets," "My Oldest brass kettle, now lent to my Son-in-Law Joseph Torrey." "To my daughter Mary Torrey." According to a Middlesex Probate record William Symmes died suddenly on 22 Sept. 1691.

He was on record as being "Ensign," and was a trader and active in Weymouth, for he with his brother John and others (according to Weymouth town records of 7 March 1715) "were granted land at Hunts Hill, the lowlands and beach adjoining at the mouth of Fore River, for the carrying on of their Fish Trade to Cape Sable." It is of interest to note that his wife's mother married his uncle the Rev. Samuel Torrey as his

The eldest brother Samuel Wilson was to have three lots adjoining the housing, with said housing, etc. — part of the land of his father-in-law Tefft. The rest of the land was to go equally to the children, including Samuel and so all of them a share. The agreement was signed by Samuel Wilson and Robert and Mary Hannah. 1694, March 15, a partition of estate was made at this date, signed by Thomas Mumford as guardian of James Wilson, Robert Hannah and wife Mary, John Potter and wife Sarah and by Hannah and Potter in behalf of orphan Jeremiah, brother of James. TORREY Rev. Dr. Joseph⁴ (Joseph,³ William,² *William*¹), first child of Joseph and Elizabeth (Symmes) Torrey, born at Weymouth, Mass., 19 Oct. 1707 and married on 15 Oct. 1730, Elizabeth, daughter of Jeremiah and Mary Wilson, at the home of her father in South Kingston, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. McSparren of the Episcopal Church. His first wife Elizabeth Wilson, from whom comes our line of descent, left six children — she died 6 May 1746. He later married Elizabeth Fisk, who also left children. A probate record of 1725 shows that Joseph Torrey (a minor) appointed John Torrey of Weymouth his uncle to look after his interest in his father's estate. He graduated from Harvard College as an A.B. in 1728. Doubtless he was employed in educational matters, for in May, 1730, he was hired at Weymouth as schoolmaster at £50 per year. Soon he was in South Kingston, R. I., as a practising physician and also filled the church pulpit temporarily. In a deed dated 8 June 1738, he and his brother Zacharia sell a "Tract of land and dwelling house and barn thereon standing situated lying and being in Weymouth, there being 2 acres." He is called "of South Kingston Colony of Rhode Island and Providence Plantation in New England Clerk" (i.e., Minister). Further he states, "having power to sell as will appear in the last Will and Testament of our Honored Father Joseph Torrey late of Weymouth Dec." Memorandum. "That Elizabeth the wife of the above Joseph Torrey surrendered her right of Dower." Dr. Torrey preached in the church which was founded in 1695, seemingly maintained as a Mission Church by contributions from other churches, the Old South Church of Boston being the principal donor. On 4 Dec. 1731 a committee of four gentlemen wrote to the authorities in Boston requesting that Dr. Torrey be settled over them as a minister. On 17 May 1732 a Congregational Church was organized and on the same day Dr. Torrey was ordained by Rev. Samuel Niles of Braintree who had formerly preached in this parish. I will quote from records of Old South Church giving a glimpse of the early trials of church and pastor. "There was a collection I remember in many of the congregational churches in 1737 to defend a lawsuit unjustly brought against Dr. Torrey to recover the parsonage estate possessed by Mr. Torrey. The estate was left by a gentlemen for the support of an orthodox minister in Kingston, and I remember one Dr. McSparren a church minister took it into his head that no minister was orthodox unless he was ordained by a bishop etc. etc. so by the help of some no better than himself, he brought an action to recover the estate for himself and successors, but he failed in his unjust prosecution. Mr. Torrey received £35. 10s." It is also recorded that Dr. Torrey annually received money from the Old South Church, also from 1731 to 1736 Kings Chapel aided in the maintenance. This church was on "Tower Hill," and the site of the old home is still called "the Torrey Lot." In the Kingston church records copied from "Early Narragansett history," we find a resolution of thanks to Samuel Holden of London for his aid in the lawsuit. Doubtless this as many other colonial affairs had to be settled in England and it is to be inferred that Dr. Torrey gave this name to his son, born at this period, in gratitude for his aid. Miss Caroline Hazard in "Collage Town," her book, remarks: "This Dr. Torrey was an interesting man, a physician both of the body and the soul. The old Presbyterian had a uniform way of reproving his son, a very naughty boy, to whom he would say with great emphasis when he behaved amiss. Why! I am ashamed of you John! I am ashamed of you!" And here for 61 years this grand and lovable man lived and worked for the good of his parish and people, leaving a name most honorable in history. His will, made 18 July 1788, is a long and interesting document. He directs his executors to sell his mansion house at Tower Hill as soon as possible, gives one half his estate to son Joseph of Killingly, Conn., to his granddaughter Ann Hawkins, 20 milled Spanish dollars, Elizabeth Torrey all his household furniture, John Fisk Torrey, horse, saddle and 50 acres of land in Killingly. His son Joseph he made executor. This shows he left a goodly amount of property and he must have been a thrifty parson. Dr. Torrey died at South Kingston, R. I., 25 Nov. 1792 and lies in the little cemetery upon "Tower Hill," and here we looked with great interest upon the glorious view over the rolling country from this high plateau, and at our feet among the apple trees we found his headstone, with those of his two consorts one upon each side. FIFTH GENERATION.

SAMUEL HOLDEN TORREY AND ANN GOULD.

GOULD FAMILY.

Bradfield, Whitehead and Bishop Families.

GOULD Dr. Richard¹ was born in or near North Taunton, Devonshire County, England, 28 April 1662, where the family had valuable estates. Was the first of this family to come to America. Nothing is known of his wife except that her name was Cruft, nor of his children, save William, who later followed his father to America. He settled in Branford, Conn., and quoting from the "Annals of Branford": "was there in 1700. It is probable that he was the first permanent physician in town. He was much esteemed as is evident from his being elected Tythingman in 1728." Only the most dignified and trusted were chosen to this office in that day. From a manuscript left by his son William we read: "Richard Gould, my honored Father departed this life 23rd April 1746 in the 84th year of his age."

CHILDREN:

He may have had other children in this country.*

BRADFIELD FAMILY.

BRADFIELD Lesly¹ This name is mentioned in the Wethersfield, Conn., records in 1643, and may have been there earlier, and in 1644 settled at Branford, Conn., locating near the shore. He died 26 July 1655, leaving a family. His widow Mary married 2nd George Adams. This is the first marriage on the record. There was a son Samuel and a daughter Maria or Martha. In the records of the Court of Magistrates at New Haven 30th, 4th Mo. 1657, this item is found. "Goodman Addams a man that came to worke at the iron worke who is in treaty of marriage, wth widdow Bradfield of Branford, whose husband dyed aboute two yeares agoe and left her wth two children and an estate amount to some-what above ninety pounds."

CHILDREN:

MARIA or Martha, b. ———, m. John Whitehead, 9 March 1661; d. prob. at Branford after 1711.

A DAUGHTER, b. ———, d. 29 July 1655.

WHITEHEAD FAMILY.

WHITEHEAD John,¹ of New Haven and settled in Branford, Connecticut, where he married Martha, daughter of Leslie Bradfield, 1661, March 9 (Branford Land Records), was with his brother Thomas, brought to this country when a mere child by Francis Hall of New Haven at the request of Deacon George Alcocke of Roxbury, Mass., who was uncle to the Whitehead boys; this was in the year 1639. We find in the New Haven records, under date of 1647, Feb. 1, as follows: "John Thompson, attorney for Thomas Allcote in the Baye requirreth youthes of Francis Hall wch he brought from England long since, that is to saye John Whitehead and Thomas Whitehead and saith he hath order to send them to the said Thomas Allcote whoe is ther unkell. Francis Halle saith at the desire of their unkell Mr. Allcote of Roxberey, since deceased, hee brought these youthes over, and was at great charges with them for their passage and other occasions, wch he saith Mr. Allcote promised to paye, to his satisfaction when he came heare, but when he came ther unkell was deade and knew not of whom to seeke his money. — iff the boyes had dyed he should have lost it, for ought he knows, for he knew of no other unkell they had, but he was blamed that he had not used that meanes to find oute ther unkell or send to ther mother as he might have done (thoughe he saith he hath sent), but he acquainted the Courte then wth it and wth ther approbation, one of them was disposed to Mathias Hitch-coke, the other he kept himself till they might have further light to dispose of them."

Pope's "Pioneers of Massachusetts," under Thomas Alcock says: "His sister Elizabeth Whitehead of Lemington Priors wrote him 1647, 25, 8 month concerning her sons John and Thomas Whitehead then with Francis Hall of New Haven." The notebook of William Aspinwall is Mr. Pope's authority. The appearance of Mr. Alcock's attorney in New Haven was evidently the result of the said letter. George Alcock of Roxbury, who died Dec. 30, 1640, was brother of Thomas Alcock who resided at Boston, Mass., in 1647. Francis Hall's statement, that when he arrived here Mr. George Alcock was dead, is contradicted by the record which shows that Mr. Hall was in New Haven more than a year and a half before George Alcock died.

According to the revised copy of the church records, John Whitehead and Martha B. Whitehead became members of the church in 1653, but of course her name must have been Martha Bradfield at that time, thus showing that the record has been changed since 1653. He was also one of the parties to the new church covenant in 1667. He was nominated Freeman 1669, Jan. 19. In 1682, he with others made choice of their plow land in Branford. He owned a house and upland at Indian Neck. He died at Branford before the second Monday of June, 1695, when his widow Martha exhibited the inventory of the estate to the county Court at New Haven and was appointed administrator on his estate and the name and age of the eight surviving children were given as follows: John Whitehead, oldest, Samuel 23, Eliphalet 21, Thomas 14, Hannah Whitehead 31, Mercy 27, Damaris 25, Elizabeth 18.

The said inventory amounts to £231.-14.-00. On March 16, 1707, Martha Whitehead "widdow and administrator of the estate of my late husband John Whitehead of Branford, deceased, deeds to her three sons-in-law, Peter Tyler Senr. of Branford, William Luddington of East Haven and Benjamin Howd of Branford two thirds of the homestead. On March 1, 1707-8 she deeds land to her son-in-law Micah Pamer for part of his wife's portion. On 3 Jan. 1708, John and Thomas Whitehead, Peter Tyler Senr in right of Hannah his wife, Micah Pamer in right of Dameris his wife, and Benjamin Howd in right of Elizabeth his wife all of Branford and William Luddington of New Haven in right of Mary his wife, in consideration of our near Love, Goodwill and Dutifull affection to our Dear Mother Martha Whitehead, deed her their right in the house etc." On May 21, 1709, Martha Whitehead deeds land to Hannah Tyler in "Consideration of great care and relief which I have had from my Daughter Hannah, In my long weak desolate condition." 4 Dec. 1711, she deeds land to her son Thomas. Several other deeds appear of record from Martha Whitehead. The names of the children appear both in the land and church records of Branford, the date of the baptism, with one exception, being the same as the date of birth.

She calls herself "widow, notices her son John Bishop; grand-daughter Elizabeth Hubbard; noticed her old servant Tho's Smith." She gave most of her estate to be "divided betwixt her three children John and Stephen Bishop and James Steele," and made James Steele, her son-in-law, sole executor and gave him "£6 over and above his third part of all her estate in

He married Mehitable, daughter of Stephen and Tabitha (Wilkinson) Bishop, 9 Aug. 1704. She was born 12 Sept. 1668. He was the eldest son and died before the estate of his father was settled, as is shown from the following, dated the first March 1707/8. "Administration on the estate of John Whitehead, late of Branford deceased granted to Mehitable, widow, relict of the dec'd XXX ordered to make an inventory — by

GOULD Dr. William² (Richard¹). Quoting from a manuscript in the handwriting of Dr. William Gould,² we read that he was "born 11 Feb. 1692/3 in North Taunton, of the family of Cruft, in the Parish of Oak Hampton in the County of Devon or Devonshire Old England." He married for his first wife, Abigail Farrington (born Dennison), 11 June 1718 and they also came to America, but several years later than the father, and also settled in Branford, Conn. This wife died 25 May 1725, aged, 26 years, and is buried at Branford. He then married 2nd Mary, daughter of John and Mehitable (Bishop) Whitehead, 9 Dec. 1725. She was born at Branford 3 Nov. 1705, and was the mother of all his children. She died 18 Nov. 1743. He married for 3rd wife widow Sarah Fanning (born Wilson), 1 July 1744 and she it was who reared the younger children.

Dr. Gould was a man of much learning and a respected physician and during the early years of his medical practice in Branford was contemporary with his father, Dr. Richard Gould.¹ He became the owner of much landed property in Branford; tracts of land on Pave Street and Hopyard Plain, once owned by him, still bear the family names as owners. In his last Will and Testament, probated at Guilford, Conn., 4 April 1757, by his wife Sarah and his son William, his property is put down as £3257. 8s. 11½ d. £1151 being personal estate. In the cemetery at Branford on his tombstone we read:

We here divert from the direct line of descent to introduce Dr. William Gould,² (*William*², *Richard*¹), born 17 Nov. 1727, who followed the profession of his father, and was a man of great influence in his native town, had a commission from the Government to conduct a Smallpox Hospital, — wishing to record the life of his third son James Gould,⁴ (*William*³, *William*², *Richard*¹) by his third wife, daughter of Richard Grey of Branford, Conn. James Gould was graduated from Yale College in 1791, on which occasion he delivered the Latin Salutatory, then the highest honor for the graduating class. In 1793 he was appointed Tutor of Yale College. Among his pupils were the Hon. Henry Baldwin, Judge of the Supreme Court of the United States, the Rev. Lyman Beecher, etc. In May 1816, Mr. Gould was appointed Judge of the Superior and Supreme Court of Errors of Connecticut, with the title of LL.D. Judge Gould was one of the most finished and competent writers who have ever treated upon the subject of Jurisprudence. As a lawyer he was one of the most profoundly philosophical of his age. He, with his associate Judge Tappen Reeves, founded the "Litchfield School of Law," and to them flocked from every part of the Union the youths who were to shape the Jurisprudence of their respective States. Here might be seen Calhoun, Clayton, Mason, Loring, Woodbury, Hall, Ashley, Phelps, and a host of others who were preparing themselves for the high places of the Cabinet, the Senate, and the bench. Judge James Gould married Oct. 1798, Sally McCurdy Tracy, eldest daughter of the Hon. Uriah Tracy of Litchfield, Conn., by whom he had eight sons and one daughter.

The above graphic paragraphs were copied from the Gould records and sent me by John C. Morgan of Rushville, N. Y., to whom I am also indebted for much valuable data.

TORREY Dr. Samuel Holden⁵ (Joseph⁴ Joseph³ William² William¹), son of Joseph and Elizabeth (Wilson) Torrey, was born at South Kingston, R. I., 1738, and married Anna, daughter of William and Mary (Whitehead) Gould, 3 April 1760. Their first home was doubtless in Branford, Conn.; to substantiate this assumption I here insert extracts of copies of deeds of land found among old family papers and loaned me by Clara Morgan. "Deed of land Branford, County of New Haven, Colony of Connecticut. To Samuel Holden Torrey, From Philemon Robbins and Hannah Robbins, sum £150 dated 27 March 1761," and another "Deed of land in Branford in New Haven County; Colony of Connecticut. To Anne Torrey wife of Samuel H. Torrey, from William Gould sum £178:15 shillings dated 17 Sept. 1761" — evidently adjoining lands to make the Branford home. They soon removed, however, to Killingly, Conn., as shown by deed from Isiah Cady, dated 6 April 1767. Quoting from "The History of Windham County, Conn.," by Richard M. Baylies, published in 1889. "The Joseph Cady Farm, east of Putnam Village (now owned by Eli Davis), was noted for producing a remarkable variety and quantity of medicinal herbs and roots much used by the Medicine Men of the Indians. — It is traditionally reported that Indians came from a great distance to gather these herbs, and that in consequence this locality was made a sacred haven, where no bloodshed was lawful, and tribal foes might meet in safety." Again, from the same authority we read: "Killingly Hill has now received another practising physician, Doctor Samuel Holden Torrey, son of the famous Dr. Joseph Torrey of South Kingston, R. I. His young wife Anna Gould of Branford, brought with her four slaves as part of her marriage portion." Family tradition gives mention, that when she went for an airing in her chaise they trotted by its side. My mother used to relate as one of her choicest bits of history, that "Grandmother Ann Gould was attended at church by a woman slave to carry her Fan and fan her." Ann Gould was born in Branford, Conn., 9 Jan. 1740, being the eighth of the ten children born to William Gould,² by his second wife Mary Whitehead; his first wife was Abigail Farrington, who died very soon after marriage and of whom our only souvenir is the Old Hair Trunk with steel nail letters, "A. F.," and date "1710" thereon, which is now in our possession, having been cherished as a precious souvenir in the home of Ann Gould Torrey. From her comes the tradition that it was used as a medicine chest and more than once was sent to England and returned with said commodities. We also have a handsome Highboy, of the Jacobean period (see illustration), which constituted a part of her marriage outfit, used by her during her long life in Killingly, and bequeathed to us in the will of one of her immediate family. The Gould family was one of much wealth and culture and doubtless Ann Gould received an excellent education and the advantages of good society in a home of refinement. Dr. Torrey was endowed with a much more thorough medical training than was common at that period, having studied several years with his father-in-law, Dr. William Gould of Branford, who had received his training in England. Dr. Torrey was an esteemed and successful physician in Killingly, where he lived on the "Home Farm," and at his early death, which occurred 1 Dec. 1786, in his 48th year, he left his widow with six sons and much property. We can in no better way give accurate glimpses of customs and conditions of the period than by inserting the following "Lease and Contract," also her will in her own hand writing.

"Anne Gould Torrey (widow of Dr. Samuel Holden Torrey) and her son William Gould Torrey," who lived on the "Home Farm." "Ann Torrey leases it to William her son, with stipulation that all Farming Tools, Horse or Mare, oxen etc. shall be kept in good order, he to have use of one half of farm. To give to said Anne 7½ pounds of good Marketable Sheeps Wool before 10 June 1798, — also to let said Anne have one Hog to kill, also one good fat sheep to be killed in the fall of the year for her sole use, also to find said Anne with fire-wood, cut fit for the fire at the Dore, — also to assist in making fires, — also Ten dollars in money — also enjoins said William to improve said farm according to the Rules of good Husbandry. — To return all as per Inventory previously mentioned without fraud. Killingly 5 April 1798, signed William Gould Torrey, Anne Torrey. witness Erastus Torrey. — " In her will which is of much interest to us and dated Killingly, 15 Jan. 1817, we read: "After my decease then I give to my son Samuel's daughter Anne, my black damask Gown and russet Petticoat. Then I give to my son William G. Torrey's son Holden, one silver spoon and one large pewter Platter and (Mr. Gare's ?) Sermons — I give to my son Oliver's daughter Anne my Red cloak, to Sukey* my black silk Gown, and diaper Tablecloth. Then I give to my Son Erastus my best bed counterpane and curtains and large hampered Platter and six Plates, — I likewise give his daughter Gracia a gold necklace, one silver spoon and my blue cheniel Gown, together with (Nanns ?) Dialogues, — Then I give my son Augustus my looking Glass, and to his son Augustus one silver spoon: Then I give to my son William Gould Torrey my second bed and bedding, — The remainder of my property to be divided by my heirs as they think proper. — William, Augustus, and Erastus, I consider as my proper heirs to that part of my estate not now before disposed of, signed Anne Torrey. Witnesses, Hannah Bishop, Susan T. Bishop, Oliver's daughter Clarissa, purpal (Wrlbove ?) Gown." Ann Gould Torrey died 4 Nov. 1822.

In 1875, visiting the old Killingly Cemetery, after much search

* "Sukey," was my mother.

we found two old headstones, overturned and buried in weeds and brambles; they were to the memory of Dr. Samuel and Mrs. Anna Torrey. It was my pleasure to put in perfect order and condition, these two headstones, reset with cement in a new base and they doubtless will endure for many years. They proved to be very costly and elaborate stones and I felt fully repaid when I reflected that Anne Gould would be grateful to "Sukey's" daughter for this slight act of filial love. (See illustration.) We visited the old Farm, but another house had replaced their home and I gazed reverently over the scenes where was spent the lives of these my immediate ancestors, convinced that in no way could we better realize their former being and existence, than to in person visit their lands, homes, and their graves.

SIXTH GENERATION.

OLIVER TORREY AND SABRA FREEMAN.

NOYES FAMILY.

NOYES Peter,¹ born in England, about 1591, was of Sudbury 1639. Came in the ship "Confidence," 24 April 1638, from Southampton, aged 47 with son Thomas age 15, daughter Elizabeth and three servants, is called a "yeoman" in the custom-house records, but after arrival here is called "gentleman." He was of Penton in County Hants, which is near Andover, England. Went home after a short visit or exploration here; well pleased with what he saw at Watertown and next year he came again in the "Jonathan" with Nicholas, Dorothy, Abigail and Peter, all probably his children and also with possibly three more servants as he paid for their passages. He and his son Thomas are found on a list in the Sudbury town records, as being early granters or settlers who went to the Sudbury Plantation about 1639. He is mentioned as highway surveyor, 1639. He had shared in the first division of lands in the town, and again in second and third, that were made in 1640. He was a Freeman, 1640. In 1642 the records show that he was maintaining a Ferry; the same year, with others, "are impowered to build a bridge across the river." In 1648 "was to see people joyne in Marriage in Sudbury"—and was Selectman 18 years. Representative 1640-41 and 1650, and was Deacon of the church there. In the Will of "Peeter Noise" of Sudbury, dated 22 Sept. 1657, proved 6 Oct. 1657, mentions "lands lying in the Parish of Andevoe in the county of Southm, called the Breaches," are "settled on eldest son Thomas Noyse," also mentions "two sons Peeter Noys and Joseph Noyse," and "three daughters, Elizabeth, wife of Josiah Haynes, Dorothy, wife of John Haynes and Abigail, wife of Thomas Plimpton," and "To Mary Noyse, my daughter-in-law the wife of my son Thomas," and "Kinsman Shadrach Habgood." He died at Sudbury, 23 Sept. 1657.

FREEMAN FAMILY.

FREEMAN John.¹ By the English admiralty records it appears that there were several bearing the name of John Freeman registered as intending passage in the ship "Abigail," 1635. The "John, husbandman, ae. 35, Jo ae. 9 and Sycillae ae. 4," mentioned there were children of said John and that the "Maria ae. 50," also mentioned was his sister. It has been conjectured, with a probability amounting nearly to certainty, that it was he who is reported as original proprietor of Sudbury, 1639. Who he married we are unable to say, except her Christian name was Elizabeth, as found by the Birth Records of Sudbury (perhaps daughter of Peter Noyes of Sudbury ?),* and she may have been a second wife. In 1643 John Freeman is mentioned in the Sudbury town records in connection with taking the invoice of the Meeting House. He died about 1648 and we find the marriage of Elizabeth Freeman to Josiah Haine at Sudbury, 13 Nov. 1649. This is no doubt John Freeman's widow.*

* In the will of Peter Noyes dated 1657 and proved 1657 he mentions "My daughter Elizabeth Haines wife of Josiah Haines," while in the Will of Josiah Haynes, his wife is not mentioned but refers to her two children by her first husband (John Freeman) viz., "Joseph Freeman and Elizabeth Gates wife of Thomas Gates" and calls them "Son and daughter-in-law."

Second wife:

Joseph, b. 29 March 1645 at Sudbury, m. Dorathy Haynes, 6 May 1680;

HAYNES FAMILY.

HAYNES John. His marriage to Alice Lambert 23 Oct. 1575 is found on the Sherburn, Dorcet register and which may be the marriage of Walter Haynes' parents. The following is a copy of the Will of Alice Haynes, widow of Semley, Co. Wilts, England, and dated 20 March 1620. "It: I give to Suffraine Hayne my best bore cloth and an apon and Marie Hayne a pillow-ber and one Pewter dish, and Elizabeth Hayne a Pewter dish and Suffraine a Pewter dish. It: My Sonn Walter Hayne shall have the use of my bigest brass pann during his life, w^{ch} pann I give to Thomas Hayne his sonn and my silver spoon. It: I bequeth to Walter Hayne my sonn the half years p'fitt of my tenement after my decease whom I make and ordaine to be my whole Executor to whom I bequethe all the rest of my goods." Inventory is dated 1623.

HAYNES Walter.¹ The following, dated "Southampton 24 April 1638," is from a list of names of passengers of the ship "Confidence," intended for New England. "Walter Haynes, Sutton mandifield, Co. of Wilts, Linnen Weaver, age 55, Eliza his wife, Thomas, John, Josiah, their sonnes under 16 years of age, Suffrance, and Mary, their daughters, beside 3 servants." Most of the passengers of the "Confidence" settled at Sudbury, Mass. He is found in a list from the town records of Sudbury, as being of the early granters or settlers who went to the Sudbury Plantation about 1638 or 1639. He was a prominent person in the community and had a house by the meadow margin when in 1676 it was used as a garrison and which early in town history was called "Mr. Haynes old house." He was made a freeman 13 May 1641, and was a Representative for the years 1641-44-48-51, Selectman for ten years. His will of 25 May 1659 and Proved 4 Apr. 1665 mentions his wife Elizabeth, son Thomas, who is away from home, and never married; John, who is made executor; and Josiah, daughters Suffrance, wife of Josiah Treadaway;

Mary, wife of Thomas Noyes, beside a daughter, Goard and son-in-law Roger Goard to which he devises a tenement at Shaston in Dorsetshire. This family uniformly spell the name with an i instead of a y, thus, "Haines." The Inventory of his estate amounted to £495:18:10. His wife died at Sudbury, 15 June 1659. He died probably at Sudbury, 14 Feb. 1664/5.

CHILDREN:

SUFFRANCE,* b. in England before 1620, m. Josiah Threadway.

HAYNES John² (Walter¹), son of Walter and Elizabeth Haynes, born in England about 1621, was brought to this country by his father in 1638. He married at Sudbury, Mass., Dorothy, daughter of Peter Noyes, 13 Oct. 1642. She was born in England. He was a Freeman in 1646, was a representative in 1669. John Haynes was selectman 18 years and Deacon of the church at Sudbury, he lived and died there, and I believe all of his children were born there. His will is dated 1 Oct. 1692 and prob. 19 April 1697 in which he mentions by name his married

† In the Will of Josiah Haynes dated 31 Jan. and Prob. 4 July 1698. He mentions "Son-in-law" (i.e., Step-son) Joseph Freeman and daughter-in-law Elizabeth Gates, wife of Thomas Gates, and also refers to land in Preston. His wife is not mentioned. It has been conjectured that she was the widow of John Freeman; this would seem to me to prove it. (See Articles on John Freeman and Peter Noyes.) He also mentions sister Mary Bacon, which gives us the added information that his sister Mary had married again after the death of Thomas Noyes in 1666.

FREEMAN Joseph (Sergt.),² (*John*¹), was the son of John and Elizabeth (Noyes) Freeman, born in Sudbury, Mass., 29 March 1645. He married 6 May 1680 at Sudbury, Dorothy, daughter of John and Dorothy (Noyes) Haynes. She was born 1651. He became a prominent man, first settled at Stow, Mass., and afterward at Preston, Conn. The first record we find of him dated 26 March 1677 in the Sudbury Town Records, is as follows: "Jos. Freeman with others are given liberty to build a saw-mill on Upper Hop Brook." He was a Freeman in 1678. From a document dated 1681, we learn that he with others were owners of twelve original lots drawn in the town of Stow. On 9 April 1683 he with four others were chosen the first Selectmen of Stow. In 1684 he is on a committee to purchase a tract of land "for them selves and for all the rest of the English proprietors therof; giving them the full power to treat with and purchase the same of the Indians; proprietors of the said tract of land to satisfy & pay them for their natural ancient & hereditary rights title & interest therunto." He was representative to the General Court from Sudbury 1691.

He soon removed to Preston, Conn., that part now called Griswold, and bought a farm, a description of which now follows: "The Old Freeman Farm, in Griswold, Conn. — On 5 May 1692 the heirs of Christopher Huntington, deceased, of Norwich Conn. sold to Joseph Freeman, better known as Sergeant Joseph Freeman, and Josiah Haynes both of 'Sudbrough,' Mass., a tract of land in Preston, Conn. bounded on the west by the Norwich line, containing 250 acres. This tract was nearly in the form of a square with the northeast corner gouged out and measured 240 rods on the west side and 232 rods on the south side. — (See No. 1 on Map, p. 124.) In 1698 Sergeant Joseph Freeman died and his two sons John and Joseph inherited his part of the land above mentioned. In 1703 Josiah Haynes executor of Sargent Freeman's Will bought for the sons John and Joseph all the land between the Norwich line, which was their west bound and the Quinebaug river, comprising some 150 acres. — (See No. 3 on Map.) In 1709 Josiah Haynes conveyed to John and Joseph his half of the original tract, which he and Sargeant Joseph bought together. Sometime during these years it is presumed but just when and through whom is not known, the Freemans acquired the territory gouged out of their Northeast corner, before mentioned, making the Freeman land a block nearly in the form of a parallelogram and covering a full square mile. — (See No. 2 on Map.) On Feb. 3, 1710/11 John and Joseph divided their farm by an east and west line which ran a part of the way on the path between their two houses (this must have been the lane mentioned later). Joseph was to have the south side and John to have the north side of this line. On the north side of the lane which ran from what is now the main road to the fording place in the river, stood the old Freeman house. It was standing when I was a boy and I remember it well. It was built on the brow of the hill and overlooked goodly portions of three towns. It was a large one story house and when I knew it, was considered the oldest house in the community. It had a large stone chimney in the center and a gambrelled roof, the gables facing to the east and west. The windows contained many small panes of glass and over the front door which was in the center of the south side was a row of panes of glass, each swelled out in the center with what we called a dimple. This little window furnished light for the entry. Nearly on the east of the house as I remember it was the well, which then and since has played an important part in supplying the farm with water. In front of the house and on the south side of the lane were two ancient and magnificent elms, which are still standing, although somewhat decayed. A few years ago the largest of these trees measured around the trunk 23 feet and cast a shadow at noon-day of more than a hundred feet in diameter. Both Sergeant Joseph and his sons owned other tracts of land besides this mentioned in the vicinity."

The above graphic description was kindly communicated to me by Daniel L. Phillips, Historian of the town of Griswold. Sergeant Joseph Freeman soon became a person of note and distinction in the community for he was sent as Representative from Preston in the years of 1695 and 1697. His wife Dorothy died at Preston, 26 Jan. 1697/8, and he died there 2 Feb. 1697/8. In the Inventory of Sergt. Joseph Freeman of Preston, dated 20 Feb. 1706/7 there is mentioned among other items "A new Grant lot in Sudbury called ye Iron Grant." "Ten shillings given by my father Haynes Will." "A bill from Peter Haynes of Sudbury." The total amount being £67 : 08 : 00.

BREWSTER FAMILY.

BREWSTER William,¹ the famous Elder, claims of liberal Christians everlasting gratitude as the earliest of distinguished Puritan laymen in England. Came in the "Mayflower," 1620, with his wife, two younger sons and the wife of the eldest son and her oldest son William. He was born 1563 (probably, but earlier by some computators) at Scrooby in Nottinghamshire at the Manor Hall of which village belonged to the Archbishop of York, he afterwards long resided in the same house at which Cardinal Wolsey had made his last stop, before reaching home in his final journey, on compulsory retirement from court after banishment by King Henry VIII, thirty years earlier. His father, probably William, was tenant under liberal lease from Archbishop Sandys, and the son was educated some time at Cambridge University and his father became, as subtenant of Scrooby Manor, the possessor of that very residence of the Cardinal, and the son therein worshipped God, according to the simple forms of the chief protestants of Protestantism. After very honorable service with Davison, Secretary of Queen Elizabeth, he partook in the fall of that statesman, the consequence of the Queen's heartless deception and treachery; and abandoned in 1587 political life and devoting himself for many years to religion, he was the first prominent layman to reject conformity to the ceremony of the Church of England. He was in the employment of the Crown, however, as postmaster before 15 April 1594 at Scrooby about a dozen years after leaving London; there he married the wife Mary. With his young friend Bradford (after a dozen years to be made Governor of New Plymouth) and others; he passed about 1607 or 8 into Holland for the enjoyment of worship without the many idle forms on which King James had set his heart, and was ruling Elder of the church at Leyden of which John Robinson was teacher, as he had been probably at Scrooby. The story of the "Mayflower," is too well known to be repeated here. Suffice to say that he had early removed to Duxbury, and there under the same roof with his son Love died on 16 April 1643. His wife died 17 April 1627.

JONATHAN BREWSTER MONUMENT
Brewster Plain Cemetery, Preston, Conn.

BREWSTER Jonathan² (*William*¹), oldest son of William and Mary Brewster. Came in the ship "Fortune" in Nov. 1621. He married Lucretia Oldham of Derby, 10 April 1624. She was probably a sister of John Oldham who came to Plymouth on his "peticuler" about 1623 and who was called "brother" by Jonathan Brewster. About 1630 Jonathan removed his family to Duxbury from which place he was deputy to the General Court Plymouth Colony, for the years 1639-41-42-43 and 44. In 1637 he was military commissioner in Pequot War, a member of Duxbury Committee to raise forces in the Narragansett Alarm of 1642, and a member of Capt. Myles Standish Duxbury Company in the Military enrollment of 1643. Thence he removed to New London, Conn., about 1649. Admitted inhabitant 25 Feb. 1649/50, settled in that part later called Norwich, a Deputy in 1654-55-56-57 and 58. Received a deed of land by Unquas Sachem of Mauhekon 25 Apr. 1650. It comprised the whole neck on which the trading house stood. Mrs. Lucretia Brewster was evidently a woman of note and respectability among her compeers. She has always the prefix of honor (Mrs. or Mistress) and is usually presented to view in some useful capacity, an attendant upon the sick and dying as a nurse, doctress or midwife or as a witness to wills and other transactions. Jonathan Brewster died 7 Aug. 1659 and was buried in Brewster Plain cemetery at Brewster's Neck, Preston (see illustration). His wife died 4 March 1678/9.

ADDIS FAMILY.

ADDIS William,¹ Gloucester, was a town officer in 1641. One of the chief inhabitants, perhaps went home to England for a short time; but from 1658 to 1662 lived at New London as a brewer. Who he married is not known by me and his death is equally obscure, occurring after 1662.

BREWSTER Benjamin² (Jonathan,² *William*¹), son of Jonathan and Lucretia (Oldham) Brewster, married Ann Dart, widow of Ambrose and daughter of William Addis of Gloucester, Mass., last day of February 1659/60 according to the "Brewster Book." He settled upon the "homestead" of his father at Brewster's Neck, which he acquired from his father and brother-in-law John Picket. This farm was originally in the town of New London, but by the alteration of the boundaries and the formation of new towns, was afterwards successively included in the towns of Norwich, Preston, Groton and Ledyard. He was a man of prominence, serving as deputy to the General Court of the Colony of Connecticut in 1668-89-90-92-93-94-95-96 and 97. Lieutenant of the New London Troops 1673, and Captain of the Military Company of Norwich 1693. (The "Brewster Book" undoubtedly had been in his custody from the death of his father to his own decease and his son Daniel, it is supposed, succeeded him as custodian of the Book.) His wife died in Norwich, 9 May 1709, and his own death occurred at the same place, 14 Sept. 1710. They both are probably buried in the Brewster Plain Cemetery at Brewster Neck, Preston.

GAGER FAMILY.

GAGER William,¹ Charlestown, surgeon, from little Waldingfield Co., Suffolk, England. He came in the fleet with Winthrop. Governor Winthrop in a letter of 29 Nov. 1630, says: "I have lost twelve of my family and among them Mr. Gager and his wife and two children." He was original member of the church that formed in Boston. He is numbered "No. 8," on the list being marked "dead, 20 Sept. 1630. Having died from a disease contracted by ill diet at sea," which swept off many of the emigrants. He is characterized by contemporary journalists "a skilful surgeon." His son John is the only child that has been traced.

GAGER John² (*William*¹), was the son of William Gager. He married Elizabeth (maiden name not known) before 1647. Was one of the company that settled at New London, Conn., with John Winthrop the younger. (The elder Gov. Winthrop remembered him in the following item of his last will and testament. "I will that John Gager shall have a cow, one of the best I shall have in recompense of a heifer his father bought of me and two ewe goats and ten bushels of Indian corn.") His name is there found on the earliest extant list of inhabitants. He had a grant from the town of New London of a farm of two hundred acres (sold in 1696 to Ralph Stoddard) east of the river near the straits (now in Ledyard) to which he removed soon after 1650 and there dwelt until he joined in the settlement of Norwich and removed thither, where he had an original home lot and all the privileges of first proprietors, his house lot in the new town bears the date of the oldest surveys, viz., Nov. 1659. He had 11½ acres (1660), part of it a dense swamp and Hammer brook running through it, afterwards in 1697 Bean Hill Cemetery was taken out of this lot. He was a constable in 1674 and again in 1688. The will of John Gager, the proprietor, dated 21 Dec. 1695, has the descriptive passage "being now aged and full of days," but he lived eight years longer. His will provided for wife Elizabeth, bequeaths all real estate to "only son Samuel," and adds "to my six sons that married my daughters, viz., John Allyn, Daniel Brewster, Jeremiah Ripley, Simon Huntington, Joshua Abel and Caleb Forbes, twenty shillings each, having already given their wives considerable portion in movables and lands." He died at Norwich, 10 Dec. 1703.

TYLER FAMILY.

TYLER Job,¹ was born about 1619, as in a deposition of 1659 his age is stated as "about 40 years." Called husbandman at Mount Wolleston in 1637. In the Rhode Island Collection, p. 92, is found the following: "Inhabitants admitted at the town of Nieu-Port since the 20th of the 3rd 1638 Job Tyler." It is said that the early colonist found him a solitary squatter at Andover about 1639-40. In Roxbury in 1646. Back in Andover again in 1650, for he mortgaged his house 5th of March of that year, and finally sold it 18 April 1662. In 1665 he was at Roxbury and his wife joined the church there 28 May of that year, and next Sunday had John and Samuel baptized there. His wife was Mary ———, she may have been a widow Horton. In 1669 he removed to Mendon, and in 1680 was among those as drawing "for doubling of their houselots"; thence driven by the Indians, he returned to Roxbury, but before 1681 was in Rowley, in that part now called Boxford and again removed to Andover. But in 1688, 1689, 1691 and 1695, he was paying minister's rates in Mendon. After the death of his wife Mary, probably in 1700, he divided his estate amongst his sons, for in a deed to his son Moses he gives land in Mendon and dated 1700 and this is the last heard of Job as no record of his death has been found. At the sixth "Tyler Reunion," at a spot beside the grave of his eldest son Moses in

Andover, a hard-grained boulder, brought from the "Tyler Farm" (now known as the Wood place), four miles distant in West Boxford on which a bronze tablet riveted, is the following legend:

"In Memoriam,

JOB TYLER.

Immigrant, First settler

Andover, — about MDCXXXIX.

Dedicated by his whole clan Sept. 4, 1901"

He removed to Braintree, Mass., where probably all of his children were born. He and his mother had a grant of land in 1639, 12 acres for 3 heads. On 30 (7) 1650, he leased 60 acres of land from the town of Boston. He removed to Mendon with the early settlers, and was Freeman 1673. His wife Joanna deposed on 18 June 1670 giving her age as about 50 years. He made his will on the 26 Dec. 1691 and it was probated 28 April 1692, in which he mentions wife Joanna, son James and daughters Mary Tyler, Martha Fairbanks and Hannah Ryder. TYLER Hopestill² (*Job*¹), was the son of Job and Mary Tyler of Andover, Mass., where he was born 1646. He married at Mendon, 20 Jan. 1668, Mary, daughter of Daniel and Joanna (Blott) Lovett of Braintree, Mass. She was born 1 Sept. 1651. He was made a freeman at Mendon, Mass., in 1673. Was driven by the Indians to Roxbury and at length returned to Andover. An old record says that he was apprenticed a blacksmith and in 1687 his native town "granted him liberty to set up a shop in ye street near his house." Soon after this the witchcraft persecution began and Mrs. Tyler and two daughters were imprisoned at Salem; they were acquitted however in 1693. Perhaps in part because of this persecution, in 1697, he sold his land and removed to Preston, Conn. The value of the smiths craft to the community in the early days is illustrated by the vote of the town of Preston in 1693, offering fifty acres of land to a smith who should settle there, upon certain conditions, one of which was that "he doe ingage to supply the town with smith work five years." That Mr. Tyler availed himself of this offer when he removed to Preston four years later does not clearly appear. He resided in the forest a mile east of the church.

The following is an extract of his will. "In the name of God Amen. May the fifteenth, 1728. I Hopestill Tyler of Preston being aged and of perfit mind and memory etc. Imprimis: I givi and bequeth to my loving wife Mary, all of my estate as the Law dierets, then to my dafter Mary furnnum I give 50 shillings etc., to my daughter hanna busel, her children teen pounds etc. to dau. I give unto my grandson Moses Tiler In Boston 50 Shillings To son Hopestill all lands in Township of Preston, with all my housing & shope tols. executors son James son Hopestill and dau. Abigail." The Inventory of his estate dated 9 Aug. 1734 amounted to £842 : 7 : 3. His wife died at Preston, 3 March 1732 and he died there also the "20 Jan. 1733/4 in ye 89th year of his age," according to a rather rude stone which marks his grave in the old burying ground in Preston.

She was born 6 Feb. 1642/3. He lived for a time in Cambridge, Boston, Marlborough and finally was among the proprietors of Stow, Mass., 1681. In 1673 he bought a large tract of land of Edward Drinker of Boston and which on the 3rd of June 1684, Benjamin Bowhoe an Indian of Pompacittaquantt (now Stow), quit-claimed to him. "He called himself a yeoman and the amount of land is stated at 300 acres situated in the township of Stow, lying on both sides of a certain brook there commonly called by the name of Elsabeth; als. Alsabat Brook." He died possessed of this farm lying on and around Spindle Hill which he left his six sons to be equally divided among them, the division deed being dated 26 March 1710/11 and recorded 1 July 1718. Two sons Stephen³ and Thomas having previously removed to Preston, Conn., sold their shares to the four remaining brothers, Simon, Isaac, Nathaniel and Daniel. "In Jan. 1886 the Homestead was sold; thus passed out of the family the 'Gates Farm' which had been in its possession for two hundred years. It was situated about a mile southwest of the center of the town. at the foot of Spindle Hill. In 1907 the house was still standing, but unoccupied and in need of repair to insure its preservation." But in 1913 it was accidentally burned to the ground. His will is dated at Stow, 5 Sept. 1705 and proved 1707. He died at Acton 1706.

BENJAMIN FAMILY.

BENJAMIN John¹. His home is said to have been in Lower Herford, England. He embarked 22 June 1632 on the ship "Lion," and arrived at Boston, 16 Sept., following. His wife was Abigail Eddy, born in England about 1600, daughter of Rev. William Eddy of Cranbrook, Kent Co., England. He was made freeman 6 Nov. 1632 and on 20 May 1633 was appointed constable by the General Court. A proprietor at Cambridge. He purchased 6 acres of land in "New Town" on which he built a house of which Governor Winthrop wrote: "Mr. Benjamin's mansion was unsurpassed in elegance and comfort by any in the vicinity. It was the mansion of intelligence, religion and hospitality, visited by clergy of all denomination and by the literate at home and abroad." This house was burned on 7 Apr. 1636 with a loss of £100. He removed to Watertown and was a town officer. He was excused from military training on account of his age 7 Nov. 1634; but "was requested to have at all times arms for himself and servants." There is evidence that he was a man of property, education and culture, and the fact that Governor Winthrop designated him as "Mr. Benjamin," indicates that he was a man of some consequence in the colony. There is a tradition that he brought a fine library from England. His will was dated 12 June 1645 and probated 3 July 1645 and mentions "son John to have a double portion; beloved wife: two Cowes and and fourty bushel of Corn out of all my lands to be allowed her towards the bringing up of my smalle Children etc. — All the rest of my lands, goods and chattels shal be equally divided between seven other of my children." LOMBARD FAMILY.

LOMBARD Thomas,¹ of Dorchester, came probably bringing his son Bernard and two other children in the "Mary and John," 1630. Requested to be made freeman 19 Oct. of that year, and was admitted 18th May following, removed in a few years, perhaps to Scituate, but to Barnstable he finally removed, for we find him among the associates of Rev. John Lothrop who settled there on 21 Oct. 1639. In his will, dated 25 March 1662 and probated 7 March 1664, he mentions wife Joyce and children Bernard, Joshua, Joseph, Jedediah, Benjamin, Caleb, Jemima and Margaret Coleman, sons-in-law Joseph Benjamin and Edward Colman, grandchild, Abigail Benjamin. Savage says: "He had also younger daughter Jemima which may have made a runaway match with Joseph Benjamin at Boston, 10 June 1661."

Jemima, m. in Boston 10 June 1661, Joseph Benjamin.

BENJAMIN Joseph² (John¹) was the son of John and Abigail (Eddy) Benjamin. He was born on this side of the water, 16 Sept. 1633, married at Boston 10 June 1661, Jemima, daughter of Thomas and Joyce Lombard (said to have been a runaway marriage; if so, they had the distinction of being married by Richard Bellingham, Deputy Governor). I do not know when she died, but he married for 2nd wife Sarah Clark. He is called of Barnstable; he sold his estate at Cambridge, 30 Oct. 1686, that came to him, his deed says, "from my father John deceased," and by this means we know of his descent. He lived some years at Yarmouth, where from the imperfect records we find several children, but not all. He removed to New London, Conn. He died 1704, leaving a widow "Sarah, and children, Joseph aged 30, John 22, Abigail, Jemima, Sarah, Kezia, Mary and Mercy," according to a probate document.

GATES GRIST MILL
Griswold, Conn.

GATES Stephen³ (Stephen,² Stephen¹), son of Stephen and Sarah (Woodward) Gates, was born at Watertown or Cambridge (?), 17 July 1665. He married at Stow, Mass., 8 Nov. 1686, Jemima, daughter of Joseph and Jemima (Lombard) Benjamin of Plymouth Colony. She was born 1666. He removed to Preston, Conn., for he is found to have bought land there in Feb. 1696, but after the date of 1707 he is put on the town record as having removed. However, it is certain that he must have returned for after the distribution of his father's farm, 1710/11, he sold his part of the farm at Stow, and I find that the town of Preston in that year granted to Stephen Gates 14 acres of land in consideration that he should build a Grist Mill, and maintain it for the accommodation of the farmers of the town, and for three generations it was run by the Gates family. (For the information concerning the Grist Mill I am indebted to Mr. William Sanders, 83 years old, also for photograph of this mill, in which he appears, being the older man to the right, he having run the mill for several years.) (See illustration.) Stephen Gates lived in that part of Preston now called Hopeville in the town of Griswold. The mill was on the west and south side of Patchaug River. (See No. 5 on map, p. 124.) In his will, proved 6 Sept. 1733, he calls himself of Preston. Does not mention wife and bequeaths his property to sons Stephen and Isaac and five daughters, Thankfull Woodward, Mercy Souther, Sarah Clark, Jemimah Clark and Elizabeth Dowling. The amount of his estate totaled £534 : 15 : 5. He died 4 Nov. 1732.

TRACY FAMILY.

TRACY Stephen,¹ "Say-maker," young man from England accompanied Anthony Clemens, married at Leyden, Holland, 2 Jan. 1621 Trifosa Le——— maid of England. He came to Plymouth in the "Ann," 1623 with wife Tryphosa and one child, probably Sarah. Town officer 1638-9 and in 1650 or near that time went back to England. In the Colonial Record is recorded a disposition of his property in New England dated at London 20th March 1654/5 and empowering John Winslow to perform it. He calls himself of St. Yarmouth, England, and says he has five children living in New England, and divides his lands and chattels at Duxbury between his son John, daughter Ruth and the rest of his five children, so we must presume his wife was dead.

He was one of the most respectable yeomanry of the colony and came from the county of Kent, England, about 1636 where he was possessed of an estate which he mentions in his will. In the same year he received a grant at Powder Point, and received permission from the Court to settle there and to build. The next year he was allowed 20 acres at Green Harbor Path, and in the following year 30 acres at Island Creek, and at the same place in 1666 a lot of 40 more and 50 acres at Mile Brook which he sold to Thomas King Jr., of Scituate in 1668. He was made freeman 1646. It is not known what relation he was, if any, to Rev Ralph Partridge. His will is witnessed by Alexander and Josiah Standish and is dated 26 June 1682 and an inventory of his estate showing £86 : 7 : 0, was taken 10 Oct. 1695, so that his death occurred between these dates. The date of his wife Sarah's death has not been obtained.

He removed to Barbadoes and his wife went to her husband there and after his death, but before Feb. 1650, married Anthonie Lane. SEABURY Samuel² (*John*¹) was the son of John and Grace Seabury. Removed to Duxbury, is called physician and also deacon. He married at Weymouth, 9 Nov. 1660, Patience, daughter of William and Elizabeth Kemp of Duxbury. His wife died 29 Oct. 1676 and he married for his second wife, Martha, daughter of William Peabody on 4 Apr. 1677. We find in a Suffolk Deed the following: "Samuel Seaberry sonne of the late John Seaberry, Boston (now living at Duxbury this 10th of Apr 1662), entered his claim to a certain house and parcel of land heretofore belonging to his father, now belonging to his brother John Seaberry of Barbadoes and himself, the said house and land being in possession of one Nathaniel Fryer, who detains it from them under a pretence of a purchase from Alexander Adams and he from John Milom, etc etc, which claim he resolves to prosecute etc." He owned land at Island Creek, North River, the Gurnet, and at the brick-kilns. In his will he gives to his son Samuel his landed property in Duxbury; "To son Joseph those great silver buttons which I usually weare. To son John my birding piece and musket. I will that my negro servant Nimrod (valued at £27) be disposed off either by hire or sale in order to the bringing up of my children especially the three youngest now borne." He died 5 Aug. 1681. The "Seabury house" stood where Wait Wadsworth's now stands (1849), and was a large old-fashioned building very high in front but with the roof nearly reaching to the ground behind. In his wife's will she mentions Elizabeth her daughter (no doubt away from home) and gives her "a negro girl Jane and a cow if she returns."

He married for his first wife, Hannah, daughter of Samuel and Patience (Kemp) Seabury, 24 Dec. 1684 at Duxbury. She was born 7 July 1668 and died after 1697. He married for his second wife, Mary Brewster, 23 May 1700, at Duxbury.

He inherited lands in Middleboroug, Mass. I find in the Duxbury Town records, under date of 24 Feb. 1714, the following: "Ye said town also gave to their agents formerly chosen by sd town to pew sd meeting house around &c. Lt. Saml Bradford, Mr. Thomas Loring, Mr. Saml. Seabury, Mr. John Partridge and Capt. It is not known if he ever removed to Preston (probably not), for we find the death at Duxbury of John Partridge, who died 5 April 1731 in his 73rd year.

ALLYN FAMILY.

ALLYN Robert,¹ Salem, 1636. Proprietor at Jeffrey's Creek 1638. His wife Sarah was witness in court in 1642, admitted to the church 15 (3) 1642. Children John and Sarah were bapt. 22 (3) 1642. Mary bapt. 19 (9) 1648. In March 1651 he was one of the principal body of the eastern emigrants from Salem to settle at New London, Conn. He had his lot on the road to Lyme; but in 1656, having obtained a grant of a large farm on the east side of the river, at a place still known as Allyn's Point, now in the town of Ledyard. Here stood the old homestead of the family, on the opposite side of the river from the Mohegan fields, the ancient fort of Uncas was in full view from the house. He was one of the first company of purchasers of Norwich in 1659 and resided for several years in the western part of the "Town plot." In 1661 he styled himself as of "New-Norridge" and held the office of constable in 1669, but in a deed of 1681 used the formula "I Robert Allyn of New London." He had doubtless retired to his farm on the river within the bounds of New London, where he died in 1683, age about 75 years. The heirs to his estate were his son John and four daughters, Sarah, wife of George Geares, Mary, wife of Thomas Parke, Hannah, wife of Thomas Rose and Deborah. He left an estate amounting to £530. 16s in money.

CHILDREN:

JOHN, bapt. in Salem, 19 May 1642, m. Elizabeth Gager, 24 Dec. 1668; d. prob. at Ledyard, 1709.

DEBORAH, b. prob. in New London after 1651, m. John Gager Jr., after 1683.

ROSE FAMILY.

ROSE Thomas.¹ He may have been of Marblehead in 1673. He married Hannah the daughter of Robert Allyn of New London, Conn., and is called son-in-law by him in a deed of land, dated 17 April 1681. He received a grant of land in Preston from the Indians on 2 Sept. 1684, described as being to the north of his house, north of the New London line. So was one of the early settlers in the southern part of Preston and was one of the grantees of Preston in 1686. His name acquired notoriety from the situation of his dwelling house. A large oak tree near the house (separating him from his neighbor Robert Allyn) was a boundary mark between Norwich and New London, standing as a stately warder, precisely at the southeast corner of Norwich. It was directly upon the line running east from the head of Poque-tamuck Cove to the bounds of Stonington and is referred to in several surveys, acts and patents. He was a Representative from Preston to the General Court in 1695. Under the shadows of the great boundary tree he and his wife lived to a good old age. He died 1743. His wife survived him, being mentioned in his will dated at Preston, 20 Nov. 1743, also mentioning his daughters Johanna Avery, Dorcas Bellows, Deborah Partridge, Mary Pelton, Demaras Gates, Elizabeth Killam, son Joseph and son-in-law Samuel Partridge. He left an estate valued at £2498.

(For the information concerning this farm I am indebted to Clark C. Palmer, an old inhabitant, age 81 years, whose farm comprised a part, his wife being a descendant of the Partridge family.) He had for second wife Sarah ——— and for his third wife he married Charity Lathrop of Norwich, Conn., in 1765. He lived in that part of Preston (now called Hopeville in the town of Griswold). In his will dated 10 July 1787 he calls himself of Preston, and first mentions his "eight oldest children (viz^t) Jemima the wife of Benjama Chapman, Deborah, the former wife of Nathan Herrick, Mercy, the wife of Daniel Freeman, Sarah, the wife of Peter Rose my two sons Isaac & Jacob, and my two daughters, Elizabeth the wife of Daniel Gates, and Susanna Whipple." He further mentions "wife Charity" and three daughters, "(viz.) Amy, the wife of Jonathan Church, Anna, the wife of Squire Phillips and Louisa, the wife of William Stanton." The will was proved 26 Sept. 1788. The inventory of his estate, dated 18 Feb. 1789, shows the amount of £91 : 0 : 7. He died 16 Aug. 1788 and buried in "Gates Cemetery," Hopeville (Griswold). (See No. 5 on map, p. 124, also p. 159.)

FREEMAN Daniel⁵ (Joseph⁴ Joseph³ Joseph² John¹), son of Joseph and Mehitable (Tyler) Freeman, was born at Preston, Conn., 23 Sept. 1733. He married Mercy, daughter of Isaac and Deborah (Partridge) Gates at Preston, 29 Nov. 1758. She was born at Preston, 16 May 1739. Soon after the settlement of his father's estate in 1780 he with his family removed to Plainfield, N. H. In 1785 we find him and his oldest son James tax payers there. In the year 1788 he is down on a list for the support of the minister. Daniel Freeman had much wealth and surrounded himself with farms and land for his numerous family, much after the old patriarchal style. The home farm was extensive, covering very beautiful sites of hill and dale. A unique feature was the family burial lot, upon a lonely plain under fir trees, containing many monuments and tablets to the Freemans of the earlier settlers and their descendants. (It is of interest to state that upon the death of the last of the direct Daniel Freeman family the old farm at this date, 1915, has just passed into the possession of Winston Churchill, the author, who has made the old house modern and the beautiful spots accessible by roadways and by

TORREY Oliver⁶ (Capt.) (Samuel H.,⁵ Joseph,⁴ Joseph,³ William,² *William*¹) was born 18 Dec. 1768 at Killingly, Conn. The fourth son of Dr. Samuel Holden and Anna (Gould) Torrey. He married at Cornish, N. H., 10 June 1792, Sabra, daughter of Daniel and Mercy (Gates) Freeman. His early life and training is not recorded, but from what is known all the sons received a good education, as might be expected from one parent from the home of the Torreys and the mother from the well-known Gould family of Branford, Conn., the family famous for skilled physicians and renowned lawyers. He is known to have had some military training and a knowledge of architecture, but at the death of the father in 1786 evidently the boys were scattered and history tells us that in 1791 he was in Cornish, N. H., as a tax payer, again in 1794, when he paid on a tax of £150 and had two polls. He owned mills and land in Cornish, the family home being on the main street. Here were born the elder members of his family. The homestead was sold and is on record as the "Pike place." In the year 1799 he moved to Chelsea, Vermont, and we have interesting data from the "Town Records," viz.: "March 11th 1800 Voted to receive proposals for building a Court House 40×50 feet and to see what the present Court House will sell for toward the cost of building. — The land Tax for building the court amounts to $1320. Amount raised by subscription was $615 making in all the sum of $1935. Oliver Torrey proposed to build the Court House for this sum and what might be raised by subscription; this offer was accepted and Mr. Torrey gave his bond to perform the work." So it is plain he was quite adept in building. He was also "Captain of the Troops," an active citizen and a "good fellow" with his comrades. Just out of the village of Chelsea he bought a farm and I have the record. "Oliver Torrey bought a farm and gave his Horse, Boots and Saddle in payment." His home was also the temporary home of his two younger brothers, Erastus and Augustus, both of them pursuing their studies and later were graduates of "Dartmouth College" at Hanover, N. H. I have in my possession a document in the handwriting of Oliver Torrey, in which he is appointed attorney for his younger brothers which is here inserted. (See illustration.) My mother told me that after her marriage she saw very little of her father and mother, as her home was quite removed, and her parents soon moved to Canandaigua, N. Y., to which place the brother Augustus Torrey had migrated and was there a very successful physician. Dr. Augustus Torrey had married Mercy Freeman, so the tie was very strong to draw the two brothers and two sisters to live their lives in close proximity, also my Aunt Ann Gould Torrey (his first child) had married Galen Holbrook, who owned a large farm at Rushville, N. Y., next town to Canandaigua. Their life here was very brief, both dying of malarial fever in 1820, and they are buried in a small cemetery at Hopewell, N. Y., an adjoining village. The early death of these two worthy people seems very pathetic, and that I know something about the details is owing to my persistent endeavors as a small child to learn the cause of my being without grandparents. By a strange chance I suffered the same loss on the Blake side. Oliver Torrey died at Canandaigua, N. Y., 14 Aug. 1820, and his wife survived him but a few days.

REMINISCENCES OF THE FAMILY

BLAKE Nathan⁷ (Nathan,⁶ Nathan,⁵ Robert,⁴ John,³ John,² *William*¹), was born in Keene, N. H., Oct. 15, 1784, son of Nathan and Bathsheba (Day) Blake. He married Susan, daughter of Oliver and Sabra (Freeman) Torrey, 6 Nov. 1815. She was born in Cornish, N. H., July 1st, 1795. The Torrey family home was on the main road, just under the side of Mt. Ascutney — latterly called the Pike place — as a Mr. Pike erected a new house on the site; at this writing the estate is owned by Dr. Nichols of Boston, who by remodeling has made it an attractive residence, also by relocation of streets in the immediate vicinity, the group of houses, now the summer homes of a city colony, have been given picturesque surroundings, with open ground, ornamented by trees and shrubs.

My mother always referred to this spot as being her ideal of loveliness, recalling that as a child, when lying upon the green grass, watching the white clouds float over the exquisite outline of Mt. Ascutney, she innocently counted that remembrance as the day she was born. Surely her sensitive soul was early attuned to recognize the grand and beautiful. When Susan Torrey was four years of age her family removed to Chelsea, Vermont. The family life there is embodied in the sketch of her father, Oliver Torrey. Of the many sidelights upon New England life at that date her "Stories to you children," as she styled them are interesting. "O yes! I remember my Grandfather Freeman; what a fine horse he used to ride when he came up from Plainfield; the Gloves and Top-Boots too were of good style — he always brought presents to the children. I recollect when he brought silver-spoons to my mother. My grandfather Freeman came from Preston, Conn, and took up a large grant of land in Plainfield — he was prosperous, became wealthy — gave 3 of his sons Valuable Farms, near his own. He had the 'old country' idea of giving his daughters, six in number, an ample set-out, as it was called in those days — In addition to all needful household Furniture they must have a nice Horse — 2 Cows — 10 Sheep, and as carriages could not then be used a fine Side Saddle & Bridle for each. I must acknowledge a certain degree of pride as I remember riding that horse, knowing it was said there was not another in Chelsea so elegant."

"My Uncle Erastus and Uncle Augustus Torrey were much in our home — the latter called me 'Sukey,' brought candy and sometimes put me upon the saddle with himself for a canter; you know children, in those days everybody travelled on horseback; I well remember the first chaise that came into the town of Chelsea." Doubtless the educational advantages of this small and newly settled town were limited; a fact to which she ever recurred with unfailing regret, and then and there she made her standard for better and higher education for others. At the age of twelve years she was sent to Windsor, Vt., to attend a "select school," at the same time was an inmate in the family of her Uncle Erastus Torrey, M.D., who had married the daughter of General Jonathan Chase. This home was one of elegant appointments for those days; Gen. Chase having fitted out his daughter Gratia with furniture, wardrobe and jewels of unusual style and value. "Yes! Aunt Gratia did look very handsome when dressed for a 'Ball' and I took great delight in helping dress her hair — with her handsome combs; an elegant satin gown and slippers with the pretty buckles gave her an imposing appearance."

She often referred to the illness and early death of this Aunt with much feeling.

At Chelsea, Vt., Susan Torrey met and married Nathan Blake 3rd, the date being Nov. 6, 1815. They first settled at Waterford, Vt., where Mr. Blake was in mercantile life.

NATHAN BLAKE HOUSE AND STORE
East Corinth, Vermont

In the year 1817, they purchased house, store and property in East Corinth, Vt., from Col. William Barron, and here was spent the remainder of their married life. (See illustration.)

Tradition tells us that the handsome Mrs. Blake soon took a leading place in village activities, in church work, philanthropic and social life and all work for the betterment and progress of the neighborhood. She was a woman who could watch by the bedside of a sick and dying neighbor, visit, console and relieve the suffering and needy; organize and help on in church work; entertain cultivated people from the outer world with a charm and cordiality all her own; step into the mercantile life of her husband's store at times of stress with an understanding and assist with a knowledge not excelled by him.

"Temperance Reform" found in her an ardent helper — her kind words of appeal and persuasion often met with remarkable success.

Here were born to her seven children, six of whom lived to arise and call her blessed.

As a wife and mother the name of Susan Torrey Blake will ever be a star of the first magnitude to her relations and descendants. Her entire life was one of labor and sacrifice for others — being so unselfish that her aid and counsel were sought by those both near and far; if an old woman in an adjoining town had been, or imagined she had been, wronged by her son and family they would all come trooping to her home saying, "Now Mrs. Blake, is not that wrong? Ought I not to complain of it?"

I cannot separate the life story of my father and mother, for it was one of such perfect mutual love and trust, co-working for family happiness and progress, for neighborhood uplift with such constant goodwill and affection that I can truly say it was a home of perfect love and concord.

Many and bitter were the sorrows and losses which came to them through the death of loved children.

The son, William Proctor, aged 3½ years, dying suddenly in, 1833. The eldest daughter Susan Ann died in 1841, aged 20 years, after a long and painful illness of consumption. Soon came declining health to my father, but he kept bravely at his post of duty. In the year 1845 came the death of the second daughter, Sophia Chandler, aged 22, from the same dread malady consumption. Both these daughters had been given unusual advantages at great sacrifice by their parents, were unusually lovely and gifted in person and character. The repeated sorrows and failing health of our father made the home one of constant anxieties, into which my young life was merged. I was retained from school that I might perform the light housework, which I was taught to do in a thorough and expeditious manner. Jan. 26, 1848, Mary Roxanna, the third daughter was married to George Warren Heath and left the home to settle in Boston. In Sept. 1848, I was sent to school at Bradford Academy, but upon returning home for winter vacation our father was very feeble and I remained at home to assist our mother. My father died unexpectedly Jan. 31st, 1849 — he had been in failing health for many months and the end was like the going out of a candle which was spent.

To this period of great sorrow was added the anxieties of the readjustment and transference to the son Nathan Day Blake of the long established mercantile business and store—which from monetary depressions and other causes had proved less remunerative than in former years — also great solicitude for the son Charles Metcalf, eleven years of age who was in very delicate health. Of this period of gloom I was of an age to receive the most vivid impressions, and no heroine of fiction ever displayed such unwavering courage, such high loyalty to principle and sacrifice for family interests, mingled with a devout belief and trust in the overruling power of a good God as did our mother. Her faith and prayers were sublime, and to one of her children they have proved a tower of strength, a rock of refuge during a long life. Her character was one of perfect mingling of strength, humility and active doing. The passing years brought changes in the family life. Oct. 1852, the son, N. D. Blake married Matilda C. Thompson of East Topsham, bringing his wife to the home circle — in December of the same year the last and youngest daughter Almira Torrey was married to Isaac Fenno, of Boston, Mass., where her home has always remained. Six months later Mrs. Blake and son Charles followed to join the family life there.

It was truly remarkable that when in her sixtieth year she could thus renounce her lifelong habits, formed in a secluded, rural country and easily adapt herself to city life and formal society — yet more unusual still the fact, that she was at once the center and mingling with young modern life; full of enthusiasm for all that was best and progressive in politics, literature and social life. Her later years were spent in the homes of her two daughters which she illumined by her wealth of wit and humor. She was never old — could always understand and sympathize with those in sorrow — with youth and joy — music and art — could entertain us by long recitations of poems of which no copies are now known, and of funny and witty stories she had no end, saying, "Why! my brain is just like some old attic store room, and when I commence to delve among the records I never know just what I shall bring to light."

I recall her great enjoyment of Shakesperian readings by Fanny Kemble, the Egyptian Lectures of Amelia B. Edwards, the Evening Lectures by Edward Everett, Charles Sumner, H. W. Beecher, Geo. W. Curtis, Wendell Phillips, W. L. Garrison. She attended, when able, the church of Rev. Edward E. Hale. She went at the urgent invitation of her friend John R. Manley to listen to addresses by Theodore Parker — but to the last-named she was rather reluctant to give too much patronage, for she had a good orthodox doubt as to his being a safe leader, with his highly colored liberal doctrines, and what was then considered sacriligious views of sound theology. She was ever alert, appreciating fine scenery, good roads and thrifty towns. Sharing with her a trip to Columbus, Ohio, in the summer of 1865 we found that mother could endure all-night rides, detentions and the unexpected discomforts of travel, with the fortitude of a veteran. She was equal to every emergency — as when we came to a washed-out culvert, where all were obliged to leave the train and walk half a mile around the dislodged rails. As Mr. F—— appeared, much to our surprise with a horse and small express wagon to take our party across in comfort, as she was seated her first thought was for those not so happily placed, and her cheery words rang out "Why! let us carry all their hand-bags and coats." We filled our wagon, and when rejoined by the passengers who reached the other side tired and spent, it was a jolly crowd who claimed their belongings, over which she had assumed charge. This is but a pretty incident, to show her big, generous heart. "The declining years of her life were like a beautiful sunset," said one of her old Vermont contemporaries, who often visited her in the Roxbury home. Her days were spent in reading, knitting and fancy work — of which she completed much of artistic merit — the designs, motives and coloring being original and unique. Her 89th birthday found her completing a handsome silk embroidery she designed for a Fair in aid of the Homeopathic Hospital.

The golden days sped on — the two sons and two daughters vied with each other to lengthen the golden halo and prolong the precious days of their loved mother. A sudden illness, a few weeks of great suffering, through which she never lost her wonderful control of self, or faith and trust in the infinite love and justice of a merciful, and "over-ruling Heavenly Father"; then came the close of this beautiful life — Sept. 18th, 1884. Her funeral was attended by many loved friends — the service conducted by Rev. E. E. Hale, who with wonderful simplicity and eloquence paid a fitting tribute to her life and character. She was carried, as she requested, back to the old home, her body laid by that of our father, in the village cemetery of East Corinth, Vermont.

My father's family played a vital part in the early history of Keene, N. H., of which full accounts have been already given. In the year 1800, Nathan Blake 2d, wife, three sons and three daughters moved to Chelsea, Vermont, where they took up the activities of mill owners and merchants. The elder son, Amplias, acquiring much real estate — the two younger being in mercantile life with him both at Chelsea and Strafford. We have few details of family life; two old documents still preserved are interesting; being commissions from Jonas Galusha, Esquire, Governor, to Nathan Blake Jr. (my father), as cornet of the cavalry in the second Regiment, third Brigade, fourth division State Militia, date June 2d, 1812 — another as Lieutenant of Cavalry in second Regiment, 3d Brigade and fourth division of State Militia, date July 5th, 1813; with the quaint old form of oath, "I, Nathan Blake do solemnly swear that I will support the Constitution of the United States, so help me God.

Nathan Blake Jr." 3d. (See illustration.)

In the life sketch of my mother is recorded her marriage to my father, and the dual life of love and harmony, then commenced, ceased only with his death. As a merchant and owner of mills and landed property he was a man of many activities, who by his strict probity, industry and tolerance soon became one of the leading men of the county — especially in matters pertaining to the church. He was devout, ever led an exemplary Christian life, was a deacon of the Orthodox Church, active in its support at Corinth Center, and later aiding to establish the branch church at East Corinth. In his early days he sang in the choir at the Center Church — among the first of my childhood memories at four years, I recall the hurry and bustle on Sunday mornings, when we drove, rain or shine, four miles to the church; sat still through a long sermon; ate a luncheon, prepared and carried from home, sat through another long sermon, prayers and hymns; if it was "communion Sunday," my father came down from the choir gallery to assume his official chair with the deacons. His love for, and interest in the education of his children was ardent. I well remember when I was four years of age his methodical methods of instruction, as he seated me in my high-chair and taught me the simple rudiments of music or the lessons from the catechism. One of his great delights was of an evening, when he could early escape from the store and around the household fire-side listen to the reading of some important book of history or travel read by one of the elder children. His discipline of the family was lenient to a fault; if very radical measures were needed our mother was often forced to take the helm.

His love of "out-doors" was marked and his garden one of his recreations. Each one of us must be taught how to prepare the earth, make our small garden plot and sow seeds — after one or two failures on our part, because we would dig down to see if our seeds were growing, he impressed upon us the lesson of obedience to the laws of nature and patient observation. My father was quiet and unobtrusive in character, a staunch friend and helpful neighbor — was always active in town meetings, ever zealous in helping in all good works. His interest was great in founding the church in the village — his home was called the "Minister's Tavern," and his labors unceasing to collect the minister's salary. He occupied many positions of trust in town affairs, was Postmaster for four years, also was a Justice of the Peace.

Some details of business methods of his time may prove an interesting landmark and give a glimpse of customs in use one hundred years ago, in 1815. To use a modern phrase, "The merchant must have a plant," but it was radically different from that of today. Home and store must be near each other, also a shed, where customers could "hitch horses" and have them under cover — a small storehouse was necessary to receive the poultry, hogs and produce as taken from the farmers in exchange for "store goods," as it was called. In the purchase of the Barron Estate was included a "Grist Mill," a Potash Factory as well as much woodland and pasture land — in fact, the big man of a town must be an owner and factor in all industries desired to promote the growth of the town. The farmers expected long credit, could bring all their produce, butter, cheese, eggs, grain, etc., for which they always exacted the best market price, but rarely paid money for commodities received. "Produce" proved very perishable and before it could reach the distant market had much deteriorated in value, by which a constant loss accrued to the merchant. The flour mill required the service of a "miller" and I distinctly remember "Pa Bergen," who was my good friend and often showed me the big stone wheels go round and the "hopper hop." The grains were stored in separate bins in the chamber of the store, and my childish curiosity was aroused by the slides and chutes by which it was controlled, also I felt an interest in the management as I was often asked the loan of my cats to catch the hordes of mice attracted by the fresh grain. When the dam broke much labor and money were expended to rebuild, for the waterpower must be controlled for the use of the mill, to grind the wheat to make our bread. In very cold weather potatoes, stored in the storehouse froze, in "warm spells" the chickens thawed and were ruined, bringing constant loss and worry to the merchant, but the good old Puritan pluck and courage ever came to the surface, and surmounted difficulties. Twice each year a journey was made to Boston, by a method now obsolete, namely, driving over the road with a horse and chaise. Several times my mother accompanied father; their recitals of those early trips and funny incidents afforded amusement for our youthful imaginations. Boston with its street lights in the evening, big stores, now and then a pig running in the side streets was background for tales equal to fairyland.

It was an event of much expense and importance when the teamster was engaged with his two or four horses, loaded the produce, butter, etc., and left the village, en route for Boston, making the trip in slow stages to meet the endurance of the horses. Often one was left by the way, to rest till the return trip, when the same conveyance brought to the store the big boxes of dry goods, crockery crates, sugar, tea, tobacco and the innumerable small wares of a country store.

Father invariably was in Boston to superintend the arriving cargo and purchase the goods to be returned. The earlier years of the business required the drive over the entire route to Boston; when the railroad was built to Concord, N. H., only a two days drive was needed. One of my earliest recollections was of the marvel and excitement when the steam railroad reached Franklin, N. H., one day's drive and a night then brought the merchant into the city mart on the second day. Yet a few years more and in 1848 the railroad reached Bradford, Vt. The wonder ceased and soon arose, as in this day, the clamor for "rapid transit," and six hours to Boston was slow travel. My father kept his interest and activities in his business to the last and was in Boston to purchase goods only three months before his death. These brief fragments of the life history of my father and mother are written by their loving daughter,

BLAKE MEMORIAL LIBRARY
East Corinth, Vermont

THE BLAKE MEMORIAL LIBRARY.

In the year 1900 the three children then living of Nathan and Susan Torrey Blake, desiring to make some fitting and enduring memorial to their names, built this Library at East Corinth, Vermont. It is of a fine type of architecture, handsomely and substantially constructed of the best materials; fortunately a most desirable location was obtained upon a large lot of land directly opposite the former Blake Home. The dedication was July 1st and 2nd, 1902 — the people of the town making it a red-letter event, by their hearty enthusiasm and joyful acceptance. Many friends from adjoining towns joined in congratulations, speeches, music and prayers. A bountiful collation was served in the church vestry — in the evening a crowded reception was held in the Library by the rejoicing townspeople, who at once realized the great benefit to be derived from such an institution, erected, furnished and endowed for their benefit.
